Eating Healthy

When you wake up, there is a stack of donuts, cereal with extra sugar, and some juice waiting for you. That sounds great, right? It might taste good, but is that a healthy way to eat? We all like to eat those treats, desserts, and fried foods, but those were meant to be occasional splurges, not our regular diet!

Eating healthy foods is part of a healthy lifestyle. In addition to getting enough sleep, drinking enough water, and exercising, eating healthy is one of the keys to staying healthy and happy!

To eat healthy, you need to start with breakfast. Don't skip it! Cereal and milk might taste good, but it does not have enough protein to keep us moving and thinking at our best when we go to school. Eggs, cheese, and meat add some great protein to our breakfast to keep us moving all day! Protein in the morning gives you long-lasting energy, instead of a burst of energy that sugar provides, leaving you sluggish and tired after the initial energy rush wears off.

For lunch, fruits and veggies go great with nutritious foods from the other food groups. Fruits and veggies give us the minerals and vitamins our bodies need to grow and stay healthy. If we don't get enough of these key nutrients, we can't keep those colds away! Who wants to be sick all the time?

For dinner, get a nice rounded meal from ALL the food groups. A slice of pizza might be tasty, but there isn't enough nutrition there! Your belly might be full, but your body will still be craving something else. Add chunks of fresh mango or other fruits to your salads to add a touch of sweetness and vitamins you need. Nuts and seeds are loaded with minerals and healthy fats that help your brain! Above all, eat a variety of foods every day.

Finally, get enough sleep. Your body repairs itself, grows, and fights germs best when you are rested. It does a lot of work while you're sleeping so that you can be at your very best and brightest!

Healthy Eating Comprehension:

Literacy and Mothering Robert A. LeVine, 2012-01-27 Women's schooling is strongly related to child survival and other outcomes beneficial to children throughout the developing world but the reasons behind these statistical connections have been unclear. In Literacy and Mothering the authors show for the first time how communicative change plays a key role. Girls acquire academic literacy skills even in low quality schools which enable them as mothers to understand public health messages in the mass media and to navigate bureaucratic health services effectively reducing risks to their children's health. With the acquisition of academic literacy their health literacy and health navigation skills are enhanced thereby reducing risks to children and altering interactions between mother and child. Assessments of these maternal skills in four diverse countries: Mexico, Nepal, Venezuela, and Zambia support this model and are presented in the book. Chapter 1 provides a brief history of mass schooling including the development of a bureaucratic Western form of schooling. Along with the bureaucratic organization of healthcare services and other institutions this form of mass schooling spread across the globe setting new standards for effective communication standards that are in effect taught in school. Chapter 2 reviews the demographic and epidemiological evidence concerning the effects of mothers' education on survival, health, and fertility. In this chapter the authors propose a model that shows how women's schooling together with urbanization and changes in income and social status reduce child mortality and improve health. In Chapter 3 the authors examine the concept of literacy and discuss how its meanings and measurements have been changed by educational research of the last few decades. Chapter 4 introduces the four country study of maternal literacy. Chapters 5, 6, and 7 present the findings focusing on academic literacy and its retention. Chapter 5 its impact on maternal health literacy and navigation skills. Chapter 6 and changes in mother-child interaction and child literacy skills. Chapter 7 Chapter 8 presents a new analysis of school experience, explores policy implications and recommends further research.

Exercise and Fitness Laurie Willis, 2013-01-14 Today's high tech world is truly awesome, but it comes with a price. Children now spend more than seven and a half hours a day in front of a screen, be it a tablet, P.C., smart phone, or television. If we are supposed to exercise one hour a day to keep up with health standards, that isn't happening. Young readers need to know that exercise really can keep them healthy, help them age well, and help them avoid many diseases. This collection of essays will inspire readers to take an interest in their own health and to develop intelligent, balanced opinions on exercise and fitness. Readers will learn about the actions that can be taken by families, schools, and communities to improve fitness levels and nutrition and to reduce obesity.

Toys and Communication Luísa Magalhães, Jeffrey Goldstein, 2017-10-14 There are few scholarly books about toys, and even fewer that consider toys within the context of culture and communication. Toys and Communication is an innovative collection that effectively showcases work by specialists who have sought to examine toys throughout history and in many cultures, including 1930s Europe, Morocco, India, Spanish art of the 16th-19th centuries. Psychologists stress the importance of the role of toys and play in children's language development and intellectual skills, and this book demonstrates the recurrent theme of the transmission of cultural norms through the portrayal, presentation, and use of toys. The text establishes the role of toy and play park design in eliciting particular forms of play, as well as stressing the child's use of toys to become more adult. It will be beneficial for courses in education, developmental psychology, communications, media studies, and toy design.
