Topic: Write a report describing the information in the graph below.

The line graph shows estimated sales of gold in Dubai for 12 months in 2002 in millions of dirhams. There were two main seasons for gold sales.

The main season for sales is in the December to May period. Sales were consistently above 200 million dirhams per month, rising sharply to a peak of 350 million dirhams in March. However, for the next four months, sales declined steadily, reaching an annual low of 120 million dirhams in July.

In August, there was a sudden increase. Sales almost doubled, rising from 120 million dirhams in July to 210 million dirhams in August. This was followed by a drop in September, back to the July figure.

From September to October, sales recovered, from 120 to 180 million. In October and November, sales remained steady, and there was a small increase in December to 190 million dirhams.

In conclusion, the main sales period is in the early part of the year, slumping in the summer, except for a sudden increase in August.

Ielts Sample Paper British Council:

Assessing Second Language Reading Karim Sadeghi, 2021-08-25 This book investigates the issue of cloze validity as a measure of second language reading comprehension. It starts off by making a distinction between general reading ability and the more specific reading comprehension followed by a thorough review of the related research on L2 reading comprehension and sorting out the confusion in the literature in this categorization. A comprehensive account of cloze procedure is presented discussing its origin, different versions, its use for teaching and testing purposes as well as the latest research on cloze as measures of readability, language proficiency and second language reading. The book includes studies conducted at several stages on validating cloze as a measure of reading and interview and questionnaire techniques are applied to investigate the validity of eight cloze tests: criterion reading tests and other cloze and reading tests in general. Two new cloze tests, i.e. reader centered cloze test and phrase cloze test, are also introduced and researched as measures of reading ability. The book concludes with suggestions for developing tests that can better measure reading comprehension in light of recent research insights on the complex and dynamic nature of reading. This book will appeal to researchers, lecturers and graduate and post graduate students taking a course in Second Language Acquisition, Applied Linguistics, TESOL, Language Assessment and Educational Measurement.

Building a Validity Argument for a Listening Test of Academic Proficiency Vahid Aryadoust, 2013-07-26 Over the years various approaches to validation have emerged in psychological and educational assessment research which can be classified into traditional approaches and modern approaches. Traditional approaches view validity as a multicomponential concept including, for example, content, construct and predictive validity, while modern approaches conceptualize it as a unitary concept evaluated through argumentation. Drawing on the modern approach, this book builds a validity argument for an International English Language Testing System (IELTS) listening test sample. The book provides some insights into the listening sub skills that the test engages, the psychometric dimensionality of the test variables that predict item difficulty parameters, bias across age, nationality, test experience and gender as well as predictive referenced evidence of validity. A variety of techniques including the Rasch model and structural equation modelling are used to answer the research questions and to build a validity argument framework. This argument organizes the thematically related findings into a coherent treatment of the validity of the listening test. The book presents the first treatment of validity argument and related analytical tools in one volume and maps the psychometric statistical analysis tools onto the validity argument framework. It also provides an extensive literature review of listening comprehension validation and psychometric modeling and proposes both methods for developing and validating self assessment instruments and novel approaches to improving the quality of language assessments.

Language Development across the Life Span Birna Arnbjörnsdóttir, Hafdis Ingvarsdóttir, 2017-11-15 This book offers insights from a seven year study into the impact of English as an International Language at a national level from the effect of rich English input on a previously monolingual people.

linguistic repertoire to its effect on the situated language use demanded of speakers who find themselves in a new linguistic environment for which they have not been prepared The changes described in the book have occurred in a speech community that identifies strongly with the local language but finds itself increasingly having to use another language to perform daily functions in education and work Findings describe how the official language and educational policies have not addressed this new linguistic ecology of Iceland The findings of these studies have larger international practical educational empirical and theoretical implications and should be relevant to anyone interested in the impact of English as an International Language

Text Complexity and Reading Comprehension Tests Erik Castello,2008 Based on the analysis of a specially compiled corpus of internationally recognized English as a foreign language EFL reading tests at different levels of proficiency this volume explores the relation between the complexity of written texts and the difficulty of reading comprehension tests It brings together linguistic investigations into the text inherent complexity of the tests and a study of the data derived from their administration to groups of Italian university students The study of text complexity draws on corpus linguistics text linguistics and systemic functional linguistics Both quantitative and qualitative analyses are carried out on the language used in the reading texts and in the related tasks that make up the corpus of tests The assessment of test difficulty on the other hand is informed by research on language testing and in particular by findings and methodologies of Classical Test Theory and Item Response Theory Relevant aspects of these theories are used to analyze and interpret both the data obtained from the administration of the tests and the data collected by means of feedback questionnaires completed by test takers The application of such diverse methodologies and the subsequent comparison of the results of the analyses has brought out interesting correlations between text inherent complexity perceived test difficulty and actual test difficulty
