

Quality water is vital to your operation.

There are components in nearly all water that you rely upon for the efficiency of your pumping and/or water-using equipment. Most is a natural mineral and as it passes through soil and limestone it picks up minerals. These minerals make water "hard" and hard water can create havoc on water heaters, pipes, faucets, valves, laundry dishwashers, coffee makers, and other equipment that use water. Calcium causes the scaling that water can contain and ingrain.

Calcium and magnesium, when ingested from water, are considered soft foods and can help hard stools, decrease heart risk, decrease blood pressure, and help prevent kidney stones. These minerals also help pipes, reducing flow and heat, leaving elements operating more energy in less water. Your operation runs efficiently and your maintenance and energy costs are

The Ion Exchange Process

Water softeners use ion-exchange resins and regenerate through a system known as "ion exchange." Systems consist of two tanks: a resin tank and a brine tank. The resin tank contains a bed of negatively charged resin, resin beads (plastic beads) that are coated with sodium ions. Hardwater ions pass through the bed, the positively charged calcium (Ca++) and magnesium (Mg++) ions exchange with sodium ions and are captured by the beads, leaving the sodium ions in the water. Since the sodium in the water is harmless to plumbing and equipment, the "soft" water is now ready for use by your operation.

During the exchange process, the sodium ions actually replace those ions captured by the water. As regeneration occurs, the exchange capacity. High concentrations sodium chloride is drawn from the brine tank and passed through the resin bed. The positively charged sodium ions in the solution replace the calcium and magnesium ions, allowing them back into the solution. These functions are the basis behind how the tank

Measuring Grains of Hardness

Hardness of water is measured in grains per gallon (GPG) or pounds a gallon (PPG). One GPG equals 171 grains. Highly favorable water with 0.5% of TDS water is considered hard. In certain industries applications the level of hardness can be less than water (5%) to determine the hardness of your water. It can be tested using simple test strips or a titration strip and titration can provide an analysis of your water to determine the correct water treatment solution for your operation.

Water	Grains/Gallon	mg/L or gpm
Typing Hard	1.0 to 3.0	171 - 513
Modestly Hard	3.0 to 7.0	513 - 1197
Hard	7.0 to 10.0	1197 - 1699
Very Hard	10.0 +	1699 +

When a water softener has run its life, these softeners can easily regenerate meaning they will exchange sodium ions with calcium magnesium ions, replace the magnesium and calcium water. These softeners can also flow water that easily exchange hardness ions for sodium ions. Facilities, hospitals and nursing homes often use the softest water and water of your water are not affected by softening your water. For those who should consider a "Reverse Osmosis" system, it is a frequent choice around home.
