 mieux lire et comprendre le livre. Reading in Proust's A la recherche Adam Watt, 2009-06-18 Through close textual analysis of the scenes of reading in Proust's A la recherche du temps perdu Adam Watt offers an invigorating new study of the novel and previously unacknowledged paths through it. After considering key childhood Primal Scenes which mark the act of reading as revelatory and potentially traumatic the book then identifies and examines the interwoven strands of the novel's narrative of reading showing that scenes where the narrator reads and where others provide lessons in reading are intricately connected within the narrator's ever unfolding considerations of intelligence sense experience knowledge and desire. These acts of reading often bewildering the narrator with their mix of illuminations wrong turns and over determinations lead us to interrogate our own understanding of the act we accomplish as we read A la recherche. This book emphasizes the complexities and contradictions with which reading always inescapably an engagement of both mind and body is riven and which connect it repeatedly to the experience of involuntary memory. Reading is shown to be frequently fraught with heady instability and lire of a highly revealing sort from which narrator and readers alike have much to learn. The book's final chapter shows how the narrator's critical energies turned contemplatively inwards in the Guermantes library are subsequently turned outwards for a final interpretive effort the reading of his now aged acquaintances at the Bal de têtes in a shift that provides the narrator not only the confidence to begin his work of art but also the humility to face undeterred the approach of death. Lectures asiatiques de l'œuvre de François Truffaut Laurence Alfonsi, 2000 L'auteur nous trace
