Food and Urbanism Susan Parham, 2015-02-26 Cities are home to over fifty percent of the world s population a figure which is expected to increase enormously by 2050 Despite the growing demand on urban resources and infrastructure food is still often overlooked as a key factor in planning and designing cities Without incorporating food into the design process how it is grown transported and bought cooked eaten and disposed of it is impossible to create truly resilient and convivial urbanism Moving from the table and home garden to the town city and suburbs Food and Urbanism explores the connections between food and place in past and present design practices The book also looks to future methods for extending the gastronomic possibilities of urban space Supported by examples from places across the world including the UK Norway Germany France Spain Portugal Greece Romania Australia and the USA the book offers insights into how the interplay of physical design and socio spatial practices centred around food can help to maintain socially rich productive and sustainable urban space Susan Parham brings together the latest research from a number of disciplines urban planning food studies sociology geography and design with her own fieldwork on a range of foodscapes to highlight the fundamental role food has to play in shaping the urban future

The Good Food Guide 2010 ,2009 Food Britannia Andrew Webb, 2012-08-31 British food has not traditionally been regarded as one of the world s great cuisines and yet Stilton cheese Scottish raspberries Goosnargh duck and Welsh lamb are internationally renowned and celebrated And then there are all those dishes and recipes that inspire passionate loyalty among the initiated Whitby lemon buns and banoffi pie for example pan haggerty and Henderson s relish All are as integral a part of the country s landscape as green fields rolling hills and rocky coastline In Food Britannia Andrew Webb travels the country to bring together a treasury of regional dishes traditional recipes outstanding ingredients and heroic local producers He investigates the history of saffron farming in the UK tastes the first whisky to be produced in Wales for one hundred years and tracks down the New Forest's foremost expert on wild mushrooms And along the way he uncovers some historical surprises about our national cuisine Did you know for example that the method for making clotted cream that stalwart of the cream tea was probably introduced from the Middle East Or that our very own fish and chips may have started life as a Jewish Portuguese dish Or that Alfred Bird invented his famous custard powder because his wife couldn't eat eggs The result is a rich and kaleidoscopic survey of a remarkably vibrant food scene steeped in history but full of fresh ideas for the future proof if proof were needed that British food has come of age

Good Food, Strong Communities Steve Ventura, Martin Bailkey, 2017-12-01 Many Americans are hungry while others struggle to find healthy foods What are communities doing to address this problem and what should they be doing Good Food Strong Communities shares ideas and stories about efforts to improve food security in large urban areas of the United States by strengthening community food systems It draws on five years of collaboration between a research team comprised of the University of Wisconsin Growing Power and the Michael Fields Agricultural Institute and more than thirty organizations on the front lines of this work in Boston Chicago Detroit Milwaukee Minnesota Los Angeles Madison and Cedar Rapids Here activists and scholars talk about what's working and what still needs to be done to ensure that everyone has access to readily available affordable appropriate and acceptable food The approach begins by laying out the basic principles of food security and food justice in light of the diversity of food system practices and innovations in America's cities The contributing authors address land access for urban agriculture debates over city farming new possibilities in food processing and the marketing of healthy food They put these basic elements land production processing and marketing in the context of municipal policy education and food justice and sovereignty particularly for people of color While the path of a food product from its producer to its consumer may seem straightforward on the surface the apparent simplicity hides the complex logistical and value laden factors that create and maintain a food system This book helps readers understand how a food system functions and how individual and community initiatives can lessen the problems associated with an industrialized food system

High Steaks Eleanor Boyle, 2012-10-09 Each year the average North American ingests well over two hundred pounds of animal protein Meanwhile the global appetite for meat has increased dramatically But feeding our meat addiction comes at tremendous cost Maintaining our current level of consumption is ecologically impossible in the long term and undermines our personal health and community well being High Steaks documents the disastrous consequences of modern large scale industrial meat production and excessive consumption including The loss of vast tracts of arable land and fresh water to intensive livestock production Increased pollution loss of biodiversity deforestation and accelerating climate change The environmental and health impacts of too much animal fat and of antibiotics and other chemicals in our food Timely and compelling this powerful book offers a modest commonsense approach to a serious problem suggesting strategies for all of us to cut back on our consumption of animal products and ensure that the meat we do consume is produced in a sustainable ecologically responsible manner At the same time High Steaks describes progressive food policy shifts that will discourage factory farming and encourage people to eat in ways that support ecosystems and personal health Eleanor Boyle has been teaching and writing for twenty five years with a focus on food systems and their social environmental and health consequences As well as working with organizations aiming for better food policy she holds an MSc in food policy and is an instructor at the Centre for Sustainability at the University of British Columbia
