Development Studies Revisited Charles Cooper, Edmund Valpy Knox Fitzgerald, 1989 First Published in 1989 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company      The Journal of Development Studies ,1996      Journal of Development Studies (majalah) , 1994      A Radical History of Development Studies Uma Kothari, 2016-12-15 In this book some of the leading thinkers in development studies trace the history of their multi disciplinary subject from the late colonial period and its establishment during decolonization all the way through to its contemporary concerns with poverty reduction They present a critical genealogy of development by looking at the contested evolution and roles of development institutions and exploring changes in development discourses These recollections by those who teach research and practise development challenge simplistic unilinear periodizations of the evolution of the discipline and draw attention to those ongoing critiques of development studies including Marxism feminism and postcolonialism which so often have been marginalized in mainstream development discourse The contributors combine personal and institutional reflections with an examination of key themes including gender and development NGOs and natural resource management The book is radical in that it challenges orthodoxies of development theory and practice and highlights concealed critical discourses that have been written out of conventional stories of development The contributors provide different versions of the history of development by inscribing their experiences and interpretations some from left inclined intellectual perspectives Their accounts elucidate a more complex and nuanced understanding of development studies over time simultaneously revealing common themes and trends and they also attempt to reposition Development Studies along a more critical trajectory The volume is intended to stimulate new thinking on where the discipline may be moving It ought also to be of great use to students coming to grips with the historical continuities and divergences in the theory and practice of development      Journal of Development Studies ,1964

The Journal of Development Studies Niels Hermes, Robert Lensink, 2001      Quarterly Journal of Development Studies, April/june, 2014 Johnny Nwogwugwu, 2014-06-18 Development Studies Quarterly      Globalisation and Trade Oliver Morrissey, Igor Filatotchev, 2001 The papers collected in this volume report the results of research on issues dealing with the failure of globalization to benefit poor countries They explain how exports could be improved for these countries and reveal the role that UK supermarkets play in African poverty      On The Waterfront: Water Distribution, Technology And Agrarian Change In A South Indian Canal Irrigation System Peter P. Mollinga, 2003 Series Wageningen University Water Resources Series This book analyses the struggle over water in a large scale irrigation system in Raichur District Karnataka South India It looks at water control as a simultaneously technical managerial and socio political process The triangle of accommodation of different categories of farmers irrigation department officials and local politicians involving water votes money employment credit and harassment is documented The book shows that the physical infrastructure notably the division structures are signposts of struggle expressing the balance of power between farmers and the irrigation department and that between head and tail end farmers It concludes with a discussion of irrigation reform efforts in India reasons for the very slow transformation of the sector and how a more integrated perspective on irrigation could provide directions for the way forward China's Education Aid to Africa Wei Ye,2023-05-31 China's rise as an aid provider in Africa has caught global attention with China's activity being viewed as the projection of soft power of a neo colonialist kind in an international relations context This book which focuses on China's education aid government scholarships training Confucius Institutes dispatched teachers etc reveals a much more complicated picture It outlines how the divide between the Chinese Ministry of Commerce and the Ministry of Education hinders China's soft power projection how much of China's aid is bound up with an education for economic growth outlook mirroring China's own recent experiences of economic development and how China's aid prioritized to reflect the commercial sector's interests is out of step with most international development aid which is dominated by education agendas and the campaigns of international organizations and traditional donors this leaves China easily exposed to the charge of neo colonialism This situation also reveals insufficient knowledge production of China and in South South Cooperation Substantial production of Southern knowledge should recognize the international development cooperation architecture as an open system by which both traditional donors and Southern countries transform

Business Law and Ethics: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools, and Applications Management Association, Information Resources,2015-03-31 In modern business environments ethical behavior plays a crucial role in success Managers and business leaders must pay close attention to the ethics of their policies and behaviors to avoid a reputation crushing scandal Business Law and Ethics Concepts Methodologies Tools and Applications explores best practices business leaders need to navigate the complex landscape of legal and ethical issues on a day to day basis Utilizing both current research and established conventions this multi volume reference is a valuable tool for business leaders managers students and professionals in a globalized marketplace Insurance Against Poverty Stefan Dercon,2004-11-11 Poor people in developing countries are often affected by droughts floods illness crop failure job loss and economic downturns Much of their energy goes into coping with these shocks and into day to day survival While insurance and credit markets combined with widespread social security provide an important cushion against poverty in rich countries the need for immediate survival may lock the poor into persistent poverty in developing countries The poor in developing countries do have informal mechanisms to cope with risk and misfortune These are based on income diversification risk avoidance self insurance by saving together with family and community based mutual assistance Nevertheless the scope of these mechanisms remains limited Repeated individual specific shocks such as illness or pests or covariate risks associated with drought flood or recession undermine the ability of individuals and their families to cope with risk We now know much more about vulnerability to risk and how poor people cope Even more importantly we have learned much about the large long term consequences of these risks which condemns many to persistent poverty and excludes them from economic growth But there is much that can be done The micro level studies that underpin this book offer new insights on how effective public action could be more effective in protecting the vulnerable against persistent poverty Policy should focus on providing a comprehensive menu of ex ante and post crisis protection mechanisms including new forms of insurance savings safety nets and the means to strengthen the poor's asset base Local communities have a big role to play public funds should not be used to replace indigenous community based support networks rather they should be used to build on the strengths of these networks to ensure broader and more effective protection With numerous thematic chapters and case studies of both best practice and of failure from a mix of low income and middle income countries across the developing world this book evaluates alternatives in widening insurance and protection provision and makes an important contribution to the topical field of insurance and risk

Reworking the land Rob Cole,Grace Wong,Maria Brockhaus,2015-06-10 This paper reviews the literature on migration within and from rural areas of Southeast Asia to examine the effects of redistribution of labor and remittances on livelihoods and land use practices as well as contexts in which migration drives yet is also driven by social and environmental change Gaps in the literature and areas of contention and debate are highlighted informing an agenda for further research Many studies approach ways in which labor dynamics and remittances to rural villages affect agricultural productivity among migrant sending households or compensate for lost labor by supporting household consumption but the reality is often found to be a combination of both on the basis of immediate priorities Perceived returns to investments in both monetary and labor terms are critical to how migration influences household land use decisions while initially profitable investments and conducive local conditions are seen to enable successive enhancement and diversification of livelihoods Overall the expansive literature relating to migration and development often alludes to yet stops short of directly examining migration and remittance effects on land and forest cover change The literature on land use change often overlooks or briefly references migration but migration rarely forms the central point of enquiry Understanding of the linkages between migration and land use can be strengthened through spatially situated studies in different geographical settings Such studies would be better positioned to inform policies relating to land use agriculture and forestry in rural regions of Southeast Asia where multi local livelihoods are increasingly entwined with globalized processes including those driving environmental changes that such policies seek to govern      Measuring Development: the Role and Adequacy of Development Indicators Nancy
