Mass Communication May Katzen, 1975 UNESCO pub Report on a survey of the role of universitys in the study of the mass media throughout the world includes information on types of teaching and research facilities vocational training etc incl In respect of training courses for journalists public relations television and radio personnel Bibliography pp 271 to 278 and statistical tables

Media Education Assessment Handbook William G. Christ, 2020-07-24 Assessing media education is a formidable task because both assessment and media education are complex and controversial concepts Assessment which can take place at the individual student class sequence program department or unit and university levels is questioned in terms of reliability validity relevance and cost Media education which has been challenged at a number of schools finds faculty and administrators in the midst of soul searching about how to clearly articulate its missions and purposes to a broader audience Departments are under increasing national state and institutional pressure to get assessment procedures carried out quickly but there is an obvious danger in rushing to implement assessment strategies before establishing what is essential in media education In communication education in general the what of assessment is often discussed in terms of skills attitudes affect values and knowledge People assess students to determine what they know think feel value and can do Here it is suggested that one of the places to start defining what students should learn from their media education is by identifying outcomes Outcomes can be assessed in a variety of ways but first they need to be developed and clearly articulated

Decolonising Media and Communication Studies Education in Sub-Saharan Africa Selina Linda Mudavanhu, Shepherd Mpofu, Kezia Batisai, 2023-10-27 The book provides insights on decolonising media and communication studies education from diverse African scholars at different stages of their careers These academics located on the continent and in the diaspora share an interest in decolonising higher education broadly and media and communication studies teaching and learning in particular Although many African countries gained flag independence from different European colonial powers between the 1950s and the 1970s this book argues that former colonies remain ensnared in a colonial power matrix Many African universities did not jettison ways of teaching and learning established during colonialism and even those journalism communication and media studies training programmes which were established after the attainment of flag independence did not place decolonial agendas at the front and centre when setting them up Starting with big picture thematic questions around decolonisation the book goes on to consider what the implications of change would be for students and instructors before reflecting on how far it is possible to decolonise curricula and syllabi and what this might look like in practice across a range of subject areas and country contexts Overall this book presents a nuanced picture of what a decolonised media and communication studies education could look like in sub Saharan Africa This book is essential for researchers in Africa in disciplines such as media and communication studies journalism film studies cultural studies and higher education studies More broadly the concepts and ideas on decolonising teaching and learning discussed in the book are relevant to instructors in any discipline who are interested in doing the decolonial work of contesting coloniality

PROFESSIONAL TRAINING FOR MASS COMMUNICATION ,1965 Resources in Education ,1999 Catalog University of Colorado Boulder,2001 Cultivating Entrepreneurial Changemakers Through Digital Media Education Byrd, Leslie Simone,2021-01-22 The role of the journalist has been significantly altered and is far beyond that of being just a reporter of news in modern times Social entrepreneurship is rooted in a venture that seeks to create revenue while being anchored in providing social value to the communities the enterprise serves Combining these creates the concept of a social newspreneur which takes elements of the old business model and creates new opportunities In this way media can be reformed by everyday people who have a vision for restoring trust and facilitating alternative activities to inspire civic engagement in new and unique ways As such journalism program administrators have realized that the time has come to alter and provide innovative educational opportunities that prepare students for careers outside of traditional employment Entrepreneurship education across the disciplines is quickly becoming the status quo on today s college campuses However in making these curricular changes faculty must engage in significant assessment of these new approaches to ensure that students are obtaining a return on their investment in the college education and degree that they seek Cultivating Entrepreneurial Changemakers Through Digital Media Education is a crucial reference book that cultivates timely and relevant practices in the development of improved teaching methods assessments information delivery and technological tools that are used to facilitate and support the social entrepreneurship and digital journalism education space It explores the role of media innovation and how the landscape is ripe for the influx of social entrepreneurs or the rise of the social newspreneur The chapters cover areas such as methods used in journalism programs social entrepreneurship in course design educational technologies student learning outcomes and how these programs foster civic engagement This book is a valuable reference tool for university faculty university administrators news organization leaders journalists reporters broadcasting agencies professors practitioners stakeholders researchers academicians and students Mass Media in India 1978 PUBLICATIONS DIVISION,2017-11-03
