Hazardous Child Labour in Latin America G.K. Lietaer, 2011-01-21 In order to bridge the lack of information on child labour and to stimulate policy interventions the IREWOC Foundation International Research on Working Children has undertaken action based research in the field of the worst forms of child labour in Latin America In 2006 and 2007 a comparative study on the Worst Forms of Child Labour was carried out in 7 different economic sectors in Bolivia Guatemala and Peru focussing on the hazardous worst forms The central research objectives were as follows to map the working and living situations of children who are working in specific economic sectors and what the consequences of this work are for their physical and emotional wellbeing to investigate the reasons why these children are working in these worst forms sectors The research results were expected to give important insights into the currently polarised debate between those who state child labour is above all related to cultural considerations and those who state that economic reasons are fundamental to the phenomena of child labour to map the existing policy initiatives for child labourers in the worst forms and to identify the best practices In the face of challenges imposed by achieving the Millennium Development Goals MDGs set by the UN specific attention was paid to educational initiatives Is education a useful tool in combating child labour and vice versa is child labour a significant obstacle to achieving universal primary education Although the evidence from the various cases discussed in the book illustrate positive trends in terms of the worst forms of child labor thousands of children were still found to be engaged in activities that form a direct threat to their physical mental and moral health and jeopardize their education This book proposes several practical recommendations for possible interventions

Indigenous Peoples and Poverty Robyn Eversole,John-Andrew McNeish,Alberto D. Cimadamore,2013-07-04 This book brings together two of today s leading concerns in development policy the urgent need to prioritize poverty reduction and the particular circumstances of indigenous peoples in both developing and industrialized countries The contributors analyse patterns of indigenous disadvantage worldwide the centrality of the right to self determination and indigenous people s own diverse perspectives on development Several fundamental and difficult questions are explored including the right balance to be struck between autonomy and participation and the tension between a new wave of assimilationism in the guise of pro poor and inclusionary development policies and the fact that such policies may in fact provide new spaces for indigenous peoples to advance their demands In this regard one overall conclusion that emerges is that both differences and commonalities must be recognised in any realistic study of indigenous poverty Freshwater Animal Diversity Assessment E.V. Balian, C. Lévêque, H. Segers, K. Martens, 2008-04-27 This book offers a comprehensive study of species and genus level diversity and chorology of the global freshwater fauna to date It gives a state of the art assessment of the diversity and distribution of Metazoa in the continental waters of the world
