Neuroethics in Higher Education Policy Dana Lee Baker, Brandon Leonard, 2016-11-18 This book focuses on neuroethics in higher education in the United States After introducing readers to the philosophical and policy foundations of the neuroethics of higher education this book explores essential conundrums in the neuroethical practice of higher education in modern democracies Focusing on neuroethics from the perspective of universally designed learning and policy design sets this project apart from other work in the field Advances in neuroscience and changes in attitudes towards disability have identified mechanisms by which higher education infrastructures interact with both individuals considered neurotypical and those with identified disabilities to diminish students capacity to enter persist and complete higher education Policy to date has focused on identified disabilities as a requirement for accommodations This strategy both underestimates the effect of ill fitting infrastructures on those considered neurologically typical and serves to stratify the student body As a result neuroethical gaps abound in higher education Latinos and Education in the time of COVID-19 Enrique G. Murillo Jr., Frances Contreras, Eligio Martinez Jr., Jacqueline E. Arroyo-Romano, 2024-12-02 This book focuses on the impact of COVID 19 on Latino a e x students families and communities across the educational continuum to better understand the challenges faced by them The COVID 19 pandemic has revealed the gross inequities that exist for Latino students with respect to access to quality technology highly qualified and culturally competent teachers bilingual or multilingual information for parents and printed materials and support for students and their parents as they move to online formats This book documents the multifaceted impact on Latino students and their families as they attempted to navigate educational spaces It offers important insights into interventions and responsive policy to ensure Latino students are afforded equitable solutions and educational opportunities institutions and systems by focusing on the following 1 How are Latino students parents and communities responding to the demands of education while balancing the adverse effect of COVID 19 on their families and community 2 How are IHEs responding to the needs of their diverse students Are they providing broader supports to their first generation low income or immigrant students 3 What role does education policy have in ensuring broader Latinx access and opportunity and ultimately impacting a rebound strategy at the local state and national level As Latino students are more likely to be first generation students or the children of immigrants in many states it is critical for public education systems to provide academic infrastructure that is asset based culturally and resource responsive and committed to equity This unique publication which first appeared as a special issue of the Journal of Latinos and Education provides an important account of the varied experiences of Latino students at all levels across the educational continuum during the COVID 19 pandemic
