Resources of Grain Legume Improvement Mohar Singh,Hari D. Upadhyaya,I. S. Bisht,2013-07-18 Grain legumes including common bean chickpea pigeonpea pea cowpea lentil and others form important constituents of global diets both vegetarian and non vegetarian Despite this significant role global production has increased only marginally in the past 50 years The slow production growth along with a rising human population and improved buying capacity has substantially reduced the per capita availability of food legumes Changes in environmental climate have also had significant impact on production creating a need to identify stable donors among genetic resources for environmentally robust genes and designing crops resilient to climate change Genetic and Genomic Resources of Grain Legume Improvement is the first book to bring together the latest resources in plant genetics and genomics to facilitate the identification of specific germplasm trait mapping and allele mining to more effectively develop biotic and abiotic stress resistant grains This book will be an invaluable resource for researchers crop biologists and students working with crop development Explores origin distribution and diversity of grain legumes Presents information on germplasm collection evaluation and maintenance Offers insight into pre breeding germplasm enhancement efforts Integrates genomic and genetic resources in crop improvement Internationally contributed work Descripteurs pour l'arachide International Board for Plant Genetic Resources,1992

Technological Innovations in Major World Oil Crops, Volume 1 S.K. Gupta,2011-10-27 Major world oil crops and their products are among the most valuable commodity in today's world trade. Over the past couple of decades oilseed production has increased to become the most important world sources of vegetable oils in response to the rising world population and living standard. Recent technological advances made in breeding major world oil crops have led to higher production and improved product quality. This comprehensive volume encompasses recent innovations and practice in the production and use of different oil crops including Brassica, Sunflower, Safflower, Cottonseed, Castor, Olive, Coconut, Oilpalm, Sesame, Groundnut and Soybean. The contributors are leading specialists from different countries of the world. Much of the literature available on these crops is not up to date hence this volume is a ready reference for researchers, breeders, biotechnologists, industrialists and nutritionists. Dr. Surinder Kumar Gupta, born in 1959, is currently working as Professor, Chief Scientist, Oilseeds Plant Breeding Genetics and Nodal officer in the School of Biotechnology, S.K. University of Agricultural Sciences, Technology. He holds a brilliant academic and service record and has been devoted to research on Oilseed Brassicas for nearly two decades. He obtained his post graduate degree and PhD from Punjab Agricultural University. He is a recipient of a post doctoral Fellowship in Plant Biotechnology and has published more than 100 research papers in esteemed national and international journals, mostly on Brassicas. He has already developed five varieties of rapeseed mustard and has written two books and edited three volumes on rapeseed mustard breeding. For his excellent scientific endeavors, he has been conferred the Young Scientists Award 1993-1994 by the State Department of Science Technology.

Mary Corbet's Needle N Thread Cocoa and Chocolate Arthur William Knapp, 2022-09-16. In Cocoa and Chocolate, Arthur William Knapp delves into the rich history and intricate processes behind two of the world's most beloved confections. The book artfully combines scientific inquiry with cultural history, offering a comprehensive examination of cocoa cultivation, the intricacies of chocolate production, and the socio-economic implications of these commodities. Knapp employs a meticulous and engaging style, making the text accessible to both casual readers and scholars. His exploration traverses the realms of agriculture, gastronomy, and trade, revealing the transformative journey of cocoa from bean to bar. Arthur William Knapp was a prominent figure in the study of food science and agricultural practices during the early 20th century. His keen interest in the agricultural industry and the global trade of food products likely stemmed from his background in botany and economics. This unique blend of expertise allowed him to analyze cocoa and chocolate not merely as indulgent treats but as vital elements in global trade networks reflecting broader economic and cultural exchanges Readers seeking a deeper understanding of their favorite treats will find Cocoa and Chocolate an indispensable resource Knapp s critical insights illuminate the complexities of production and consumption making this work a valuable guide for anyone interested in culinary history agricultural science or the intricate world of chocolate
