Afrikaans Short Stories Felix Vincent Lategan, Michael Wallendorf Smuts, Hymne Weiss, 1964 Stories of the Liberation Struggles in South Africa Prof. Thabo Israel Pudi, 2014-12-12 The Stories of the Liberation Struggles in South Africa Mpumalanga Province Book II is a continuation of the Stories of the Liberation struggle stories from Book I as told by the people of South Africa about their experiences and contributions to the ultimate victory over oppression, domination and apartheid. Many books and documentaries and even other forms of media when discussing the liberation struggles in South Africa have focused on stories or experiences as told by well-known individuals. This to some extent has created an impression that the struggle was fought by known individuals and leaders and it is only the known individuals and the leadership that have experienced the wrath of the police, the army or the might of the South African regime. In actual fact the truth is that the leadership was there to fuel and to organize the struggle and the masses. Out of spontaneity and the resistance to oppression the struggle was automatically born. In this book and Part II the contributors tell of stories about the struggle that they witnessed or have affected them directly. Apartheid and oppression was in actual fact against all nonwhite people and not only against leaders. The foot soldiers or people on the ground who waged the real battles when they destroyed targets and defied the state of emergencies and survive teargas and gunshots are the ones that will tell stories that even the so-called leaders will have to hear and learn from them. Some of the stories: the stories of bravery, the stories of sacrifice, the stories of escape and the stories of resistance against the forces that were intent on undermining the human dignity of the black masses will be heard for the first time by some of the leadership that are still alive. Suffice it to say that the reason is that the media reporting has been biased against these individuals who may have been perceived to be nobodies. As is evident in this book they may be nobodies but the stories that they tell are worth the while. It is indeed true that every story has more than one side: the side told by the leadership, the side told by the media which in many instances are driven by sensation or allegiance to the leadership and the side told by the others. I marvel at the words of the wise that there are three sides to each story: side of the story, the other man side of the story and the true version of the story. This book is not about to judge as to which side of the story is true or appropriate but to make available a platform from which even the unknown will have to tell their own stories about their suffering and the liberation struggles in South Africa. Is it not better to read the stories from those who have experience of them rather than those who heard about them? Mayibuye, 1993

Zoë Wicomb & the Translocal Kai Easton, Derek Attridge, 2017-09-25 This is the first book on the fiction of Zoë Wicomb, a writer long at the forefront of the South African canon and whose international stature was firmly secured with the award of an inaugural Windham-Campbell prize at Yale in 2013. It brings together interdisciplinary essays from the UK, USA, South Africa and Australia demonstrating Wicomb's importance as a novelist, short story writer and critic. The central focus of the volume is the translocal, a term that navigates the complex and shifting relations between disparate localities respecting the situatedness of each locality within its immediate geopolitical context while investigating the connections and contrasts that operate between them In Wicomb's case her work stems from a dual allegiance to two localities both in her fiction as in her life South Africa's Western Cape and the west of Scotland In tracking the relations contemporary and historical between these sites her fiction reveals a consistent interest in and interrogation of home and belonging space and place it also offers telling insights into questions of race and gender The historical processes of colonization and migration that have produced translocal connections of this kind are central to postcolonial studies to which this book makes a significant contribution Exploring the visual and cartographical and extending debates on the transnational and cosmopolitan that are currently taking place across disciplines including literary studies geography history politics and anthropology the collection covers the range of Wicomb's work It also features an unanthologised essay by Wicomb herself an interview and a suite of photographs by Sophia Klaase whose images of Namaqualand inspired Wicomb's most recent novel October
