Matriculants Exam Timetable:

Advances in Communication Systems and Electrical Engineering He Huang, Yuh-Shyan Chen, 2008-02-02 This volume contains contributions from participants in the 2007 International Multiconference of Engineers and Computer Scientists. It covers a variety of subjects in the frontiers of intelligent systems and computer engineering and their industrial applications. The book reflects the tremendous advances in communication systems and electrical engineering. The book provides an excellent reference work for researchers and graduate students working in the field.

Schools Making a Difference Martin Thrupp, 1999-05-16 Does an effective school really come about through the actions of teachers and school leaders or does it also require an advantaged student intake? This question reflects a longstanding research debate about whether or not the social class mix of a school's student intake has much effect on individual achievement. Schools Making a Difference Let's Be Realistic presents new evidence which suggests that school mix is likely to be important because of the way many school processes are deeply influenced by student intake characteristics. Low socioeconomic schools face numerous intake-related constraints which make them highly resistant to improvement efforts. By suggesting that failing schools are often overwhelmed rather than ineffective, this book provides a sympathetic reappraisal of the performance of teachers and school leaders in such schools. It also offers a critical response to the often unrealistic claims of the school effectiveness and school improvement movement and a fresh critique of market reforms in education.

The Universal Tutor London gen. corresp. coll., 1894

New Scientist, 1993

Eye of the Monkey Krisztina Tóth, 2025-10-14 A doctor-patient love affair goes awry in this near-future dystopian novel, the first by the award-winning Hungarian writer to be translated into English. Like peering into the abyss and finding your consciousness forever altered, you cannot escape this book; you already hear its thunder. Elfriede Jelinek, winner of the Nobel Prize in Literature, Eye of the Monkey begins in the wake of a devastating civil war that led to the formation of the United Regency, an autocracy in an unnamed European country. The ravages of war are sweeping, and the populace has been divided into segregated zones where the well-off are under mass surveillance and the poor are phantom presences confined and ghettoized. On the verge of a nervous breakdown after being followed by a young man for weeks, Giselle, a history professor at the New University, seeks the help of Dr. Mihály Kreutzer, a psychiatrist who is navigating divorce and the recent death of his mother. They soon begin a torrid love affair, but everything is not what it seems. As Giselle begins to unpack her family history and the possible root of her psychological crisis, Dr. Kreutzer, who has ties to some of the most powerful people in the country, possesses ulterior motives of his own. In this deftly woven polyphonic and dystopian novel, full of twists, turns, and treachery, we plumb the depths of a fractured, disturbed, and isolated society as well as the underbelly of social perversions such as a society that produces intricate web stories within stories, revealing the complicated lives of women and men who struggle to negotiate the networks of power and poverty that have shaped their lives and their relationships to one another.

Citizenship Education in a Divided Society Elizabeth

Anderson Worden,2022-12-30 This book examines the possibilities and realities of promoting citizenship peace and reconciliation through schooling in divided and post conflict societies With specific attention to the case of Northern Ireland and the Local and Global Citizenship LGC initiative the book investigates the faltering progress to develop and teach school curricula aimed at promoting citizenship as well as peace tolerance and mutual understanding Following an overview of the scholarship on citizenship education the author provides a broad social and political historical context within which to understand the educational reforms and changes that have taken place in Northern Ireland highlighting various education initiatives of the 1970s 1980s and 1990s that sought to foster understanding of the other and promote reconciliation The book s focus then shifts to the implementation of LGC which began in 2007 Despite initially strong political support and a considerable investment in terms of financial and human resources LGC has had limited impact The book analyzes the obstacles impeding its success which include marginalization within the curriculum and competing conceptions of the purpose of education A concluding chapter reflects upon what we can learn from LGC s implementation and highlights innovative recent initiatives to bring the young people of Northern Ireland together This book will appeal to scholars and students of education studies with interests in citizenship education peace studies educational policy and curricula and practice
