Anderson, Celina Su, 2009-05-01 Shares the voices of students speaking out against the failures of urban education Our schools suck This is how many young people of color call attention to the kind of public education they are receiving In cities across the nation many students are trapped in under funded mismanaged and unsafe schools Yet a number of scholars and of public figures have shifted attention away from the persistence of school segregation to lambaste the values of young people themselves Our Schools Suck forcefully challenges this assertion by giving voice to the compelling stories of African American and Latino students who attend under resourced inner city schools where guidance counselors and AP classes are limited and security guards and metal detectors are plentiful and grow disheartened by a public conversation that continually casts them as the problem with urban schools By showing that young people are deeply committed to education but often critical of the kind of education they are receiving this book highlights the dishonesty of public claims that they do not value education Ultimately these powerful student voices remind us of the ways we have shirked our public responsibility to create excellent schools True school reform requires no less than a new civil rights movement where adults join with young people to ensure an equal education for each and every student

High-Stakes Schooling Christopher Bjork, 2016 Drawing on Japan's experiences with testing overtesting and recent reforms to relax educational pressures Christopher Bjork sheds light on the best path forward for US schools He asks a variety of questions related to testing and reform and each draws direct parallels to issues that the schools currently face

Culturally Responsive Standards-Based Teaching Steffen Saifer, 2011 Teaching children from diverse backgrounds begins with simple questions What is my culture What are my students cultures How does culture affect how I teach and how my students learn Can I learn to value and honour the unique experiences and cultures of my students These are essential questions for educators with a sincere desire to help all students succeed This comprehensive guide provides detailed examples that show why and how to create culturally responsive standards based CRSB instruction in the classroom schoolwide and at the district level Results of effective programs include increased academic success for all learners engaged and motivated students development of critical thinking skills necessary for higher learning and strengthened partnerships between students families and communities This new edition is enhanced with nationwide examples up to date resources and tools that can be implemented immediately Principals administrators K 12 teachers curriculum and staff developers and college instructors will find this handbook a valuable and powerful tool for promoting student engagement and improving struggling schools

Teaching in the Standards-based Classroom, 2001 Virtually every national standards document every state framework and every local set of standards calls for fundamental changes in what and how teachers teach The challenge for teachers is to implement the vision for mathematics and science classrooms called for in the standards This issue describes that vision and suggests ways to use the standards mandated in your school to improve your practice to help you teach in your standards based classroom
