Managing Projects for Success Albert Hamilton, 2001 The influences of modern technology and competitive environments have a direct impact on the outcomes of projects irrespective of project type This text is a response to the growing need for better management which many people find necessary when leading or working within teams or groups undertaking a project Increasingly people in a working environment are engaged in organised practices and utilising resources facing the challenge of having to meet or better predetermined cost budgets and strict timetables The fact that most work is organised into programs or singular projects means that people require increasing guidance in project management

Changing Gears J. Carlopio, 2003-02-20 Many change management programmes designed to implement new technology are unsuccessful The author draws upon a number of perspectives in change management and organisational strategy to show that failure is often not to do with technical factors but because of resistance of the workforce He presents a new approach to implementing technology based upon the persuasion and commitment of the main stakeholders Carlopio argues that senior managers should take organisational sensitivities and characteristics into account and build a communication and training and development strategy that will support the implementation of change In this way members of an organisation will be encouraged to embrace the new technology and it will become a part of their corporate mindset
