and private sector workers contributors look at the impact of generational and educational shifts seen by some commentators as proof that Cosatu is now middle class The book also raises the issue of gender in the unions by usefully locating the controversy around charges levelled at Zwelinzima Vavi in 2013 in the larger context of serious problems in the gender politics within parts of Cosatu Refuting the image of a union federation solidly committed to the ANC Labour Beyond Cosatu presents evidence of a sharp decline in support for the ANC within Cosatu and growing scepticism towards the Alliance It shows that attempts to understand the labour movement in South Africa in the future will need to include research of smaller independent unions and social movements The volume s contributors make a major contribution to key debates on labour and democracy providing new material that can potentially shift the discussion in important ways This book will be of great value to students and researchers in Industrial Sociology Political Studies Industrial Psychology and Economics and Management

South African Autobiography as Subjective History Lena Englund, 2021-09-14 This book examines 21st century South African autobiographical writing that addresses the nation's socio-political realities both past and present. The texts in focus represent and depict a South Africa caught in the midst of contradictory and competing images of the Rainbow Nation. Arguing that recent memoirs question and criticize the illusion of a united nation, the study shows how these texts reveal the flaws and shortcomings not only of the apartheid past but of contemporary South Africa. It encompasses a broad range of autobiographical works largely published since 2009 that engage with South Africa's past, present and future. At its centre is the quest for space and belonging and this book investigates who can comfortably belong in South Africa in its post-apartheid, post-Truth and Reconciliation, post-Mbeki and post-Zuma state.

Intellectual Property and Traditional Knowledge in the Global Economy Teshager W. Dagne, 2014-09-04 Arising from recent developments at the international level, many developing countries, indigenous peoples and local communities are considering using geographical indications (GIs) to protect traditional knowledge and to promote trade and overall economic development. Despite the considerable enthusiasm over GIs in diverse quarters, there is an appreciable lack of research on how far and in what context GIs can be used as a protection model for traditional knowledge-based resources. This book critically examines the potential uses of geographical indications as models for protecting traditional knowledge-based products and resources in national and international intellectual property legal frameworks. By analysing the reception towards GIs from developing countries and advocates of development in the various legal and non-legal regimes including the World Trade Organization, World Intellectual Property Organization and the Convention on Biological Diversity and the Food and Agricultural Organization, the book evaluates the development potential of GIs in relation to ensuing changes in international intellectual property law in accommodating traditional knowledge. Teshager W. Dagne argues for a degree of balance in the approach to the implementation of global intellectual property rights in a manner that gives developing countries an opportunity to protect traditional knowledge-based products. The book will be of great interest and use to scholars and students of intellectual property law, public international law, traditional knowledge and global governance.
