School Years John H. Lounsbury, Gordon F. Vars, 1978 South Carolina's Turkish People Terri Ann Ognibene, Glen Browder, 2018-04-15 The story of misunderstood immigrants and their struggle to gain recognition and acceptance in the rural South Despite its reputation as a melting pot of ethnicities and races the United States has a well documented history of immigrants who have struggled through isolation segregation discrimination oppression and assimilation South Carolina is home to one such group known historically and derisively as the Turks which can trace its oral history back to Joseph Benenhaley an Ottoman refugee from Old World conflict According to its traditional narrative Benenhaley served with Gen Thomas Sumter in the Revolutionary War His dark hued descendants lived insular lives in rural Sumter County for the next two centuries and only in recent decades have they enjoyed the full blessings of the American experience Early scholars ignored the Turkish tale and labeled these people tri racial isolates and later writers disparaged them as so called Turks But members of the group persisted in claiming Turkish descent and living reclusively for generations Now in South Carolina s Turkish People Terri Ann Ognibene and Glen Browder confirm the group s traditional narrative through exhaustive original research and oral interviews In search of definitive documentation Browder combed through a long list of primary sources including historical reports public records and private papers He also devised new evidence such as a reconstruction of Turkish lineage of the 1800s through genealogical analysis and genetic testing Ognibene a descendant of the state s Turkish population conducted personal interviews with her relatives who had been in the community since the 1900s They talked at length and passionately about their cultural identity their struggle for equal rights and the mixed benefits of assimilation Ognibene s and Browder s findings are clear South Carolina s Turkish people finally know and can celebrate their heritage

Imagining the Future Chilla Bulbeck, 2012 Do young Australians understand and live equality and difference differently from older generations Is Australia the gender equal society that many claim it to be How do we understand and explain growing economic inequality when our dominant ideologies are individualism and neoliberalism What are or should be the limits of tolerance in our negotiation of cultural difference Imagining the Future explores our contemporary complex equality narrative through the desires and dreams of 1000 young Australians and 230 of their parents from diverse backgrounds across Australia This extraordinary data set affords analysis of the impact of gender socio economic disadvantage ethnicity Aboriginality and sexuality on young peoples imagined life stories or essays written about their future An intergenerational comparison assesses how different young people really are from older generations The book offers a compelling and subtle engagement with the sometimes deeply moving sometimes hilarious voices of young people to deliver insight into the challenges and complexity of gender and other social relations in early 21st Australian society Young people yearn for and believe in equal opportunities but their imagined life stories indicate massive inequalities in the personal resources that will allow them to achieve their goals They claim to live in a world of gender equality even as they continue to cherish performances of gender difference The gulf between young mens and young womens imagined intimate lives together suggest that many are bound for conflict They and indeed their parents do not understand the world in terms of class relations but proclaim that everyone is the same even as they are aware of fine distinctions in economic resources and cultural capital Alongside proclaimed acceptance of cultural diversity the advantages experienced by virtue of being white challenges many young Australians In an increasingly individualistic world some young people perform in intimate citizenship or personal engagements based on shared experiences Like their parents few understand obligations towards unmet others which form the basis of national solidarity
