Grade Life Science Exam Paper 24:

The 1990 Science Report Card : NAEP's Assessment of Fourth, Eighth, and Twelfth Graders Lee R. Jones, 1992 This report from The Nation's Report Card provides further information about students' lack of preparation in science, their apparent disinclination to enroll in challenging science courses, and the comparatively low achievement of Black and Hispanic students, females, economically disadvantaged students, and non-college-bound students. These Science Report Card results are based on a national survey of nearly 20,000 students in grades 4, 8, and 12 conducted during the winter and spring of 1990 by the National Assessment of Education Progress (NAEP). The results from the 1990 science assessment were analyzed using item response theory (IRT) methods, allowing NAEP to describe performance across the grades and subpopulations on a 0 to 500 scale. Along this continuum, four levels of proficiency were defined: Level 200 Understands Simple Scientific Principles; Level 250 Applies General Scientific Information; Level 300 Analyzes Scientific Procedures and Data; and Level 350 Integrates Specialized Scientific Information. Overall science proficiency by race, ethnicity, gender, region, type of community, type of school, parents' highest level of education, additional home factors, types of high school programs, and plans after high school was determined. Chapters include: 1. Overall Science Proficiency for the Nation and Demographic Subpopulations; 2. Levels of Science Proficiency for the National and Demographic Subpopulations; 3. Science Proficiency by Content Areas for the Nation, Subpopulations, and in Relation to High School Course Taking; 4. Attitudes toward Science Education and Students' Experiences in Science; 5. Toward Scientific Literacy for All Instructional Goals and Practices; and 6. Who Is Teaching Science: A Profile of the Eighth Grade Science Teaching Force. The profile survey on teachers included data on race, ethnicity, years of teaching, experience level, and type of teaching certification; academic training; teachers' perceptions of their preparation to teach science topics; and teachers' professional activities in science. An overview of the procedures used in the 1990 science assessment, the NAEP scale anchoring process for the 1990 science assessment, and additional example anchor items and statistical data for all parts of the survey are appended. Christine Y. O'Sullivan, Andrew R. Weiss, 1999 In 1996 the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) assessed the knowledge and skills of students in the areas of earth science, life science, and physical science. It also collected information related to the background of students, grades 4, 8, and 12; their teachers, grades 4 and 8; and the schools they attended, grades 4, 8, and 12. This report is intended primarily for science teachers; hence the results presented relate directly to student performance, classroom practices, and school climate. This report also discusses students' attitudes and beliefs about science. The report is divided into four parts. In the first part, chapter 1, an overview of the assessment is provided. This includes information about the framework used in the development of the assessment, a description of how the assessment was administered to students and an explanation of how to interpret NAEP results In the second part chapters 2 3 and 4 examples of questions and student responses are presented These chapters are divided by grade The third part chapters 5 and 6 contains information collected from students teachers and school administrators about classroom practices student motivation and parental involvement in learning Finally the fourth part contains appendices offering a fuller description of the procedures used for the NAEP 1996 science assessment appendix A scoring guides for questions discussed in chapters 2 3 and 4 appendix B and standard errors for the statistics presented in the report appendix C WRM Science Test
