Abstract

Medical students often seek case reports as vehicles for academic writing opportunities, conference presentation avenues, and residency/fellowship application highlights. Here we review a case where, due to unfortunate circumstances, a student made a unique diagnosis central to proper patient clinical care, wished to write up the case subsequently, but was ultimately excluded from the final work stemming from the patient case. We review the pitfalls that occurred in the process of pursuing publication of an interesting case, the educational value of pursuing case reports for students, the necessity for strong mentorship in this process, and general principles that medical students can follow regarding case report creation to avoid being "burned".

Introduction

Medical students often seek case reports as vehicles for academic writing opportunities, conference presentation avenues, and residency/fellowship application highlights. Here we review a case where, due to unfortunate circumstances, a student made a unique diagnosis central to proper patient clinical care, wished to write up the case subsequently, but was ultimately excluded from the final work stemming from the patient case. Below, we will review the pitfalls that occurred in the process of pursuing publication of an interesting case and general principles that medical students can follow regarding case report creation to avoid being "burned". The medical specifics of this case will be generalized to maintain anonymity.

The book covers the framework for constructing a scientific study into a coherent narrative that can later be easily translated into a written manuscript. The content of each article section in accordance with the IMRAD format is covered and many details for the construction of additional submission materials are provided. Characteristics of papers reporting on specific types of research are presented as well as article types other than the general full research article. The book is full of resources for additional reading and learning. There are many writing guides on the market. Most of them are general cover a wide range of scientific writing and are mainly aimed at students. This book is best suited for young professionals who are a few years out of school. They no longer enjoy the benefit of close mentoring by a thesis adviser or equivalent but still lack the experience to lead writing projects on their own. Through her experience of teaching young professionals and editing their work, Dr Diskin has learned their unique set of needs and the book has been written in an attempt to address them. Dr Diskin addresses the reader in the second person with an ever supportive tone. Importantly, the practicalities of writing articles in today's interconnected environment are discussed throughout the book. Topics such as coordinating the writing in a multinational team, use of different types of software in the writing process, and resources available online to support the writer are addressed in detail.

Koen Santifort, Bruno André Lopes, Simone Spinillo, Andrea Tipold, Joao Miguel De Frias, Susana Monforte, 2025-06-26 Case reports in veterinary neurology hold significant potential for advancing the fields of veterinary neurology and neurosurgery. These reports may document unique and rare clinical cases as well as offer insightful observations of more prevalent diseases. In all instances they provide valuable insights into the diagnostic, therapeutic and prognostic aspects of neurological disorders in animals. The detailed descriptions and originality found in case reports underscore their essential role in advancing medical science. The late Dr Robert J Higgins of UC Davis in California USA emphasized the significance of case reports stating: "Their importance in advancing knowledge becomes even more evident when we realize how much we still act as a catalyst for further research and clinical inquiry. They not only identify gaps in existing knowledge but also propose new hypotheses and occasionally challenge established paradigms. This in turn can stimulate more extensive studies and drive progress in veterinary neurology and neurosurgery." For example, a meticulously documented case report can unveil a new therapeutic approach or unexpected complication, triggering broader investigations that have the potential to enhance patient care significantly. The aim of this Research Topic is to establish a lasting and prominently featured platform for the publication of case reports in veterinary neurology and neurosurgery. By sharing unique clinical experiences and outcomes, veterinarians contribute to a collective database of knowledge that benefits the entire profession. This collaborative effort can contribute to advances in the field of veterinary neurology as a whole. The journal invites submissions of case reports that focus on veterinary neurology and neurosurgery. These reports should provide detailed accounts of clinical cases that contribute significantly to the field of veterinary medicine. The scope includes but is not limited to: Neurological disorders in various animal species including domestic pets, horses, large animals, wildlife and exotic animals; Innovative diagnostic techniques and their applications in veterinary neurology cases; Novel therapeutic approaches and outcomes in the management of neurological conditions; Detailed descriptions of neurosurgical procedures and postoperative care; Case reports highlighting unusual presentations of common neurological diseases; Comparative neurology and its implications for veterinary practice; New insights into neuropathology and neurodiagnostics; Clinical challenges and solutions in veterinary neurology cases. Drs Koen Santifort, Bruno A Lopes and Simone Spinillo are employed by private veterinary hospitals. All other Topic Editors declare no competing interests with regards to the Research Topic subject.

The Trigemino-Cardiac Reflex: Beyond the Diving Reflex Bernhard Schaller, Tumul Chowdhury, 2018-01-16 The trigemino cardiac reflex (TCR) is a well established brain stem reflex and commonly manifests as bradycardia, asystole, hypotension and/or apnea. This phenomenon was extensively explored in the recent past. However, the area related to its exact bio-physiological mechanism, neuro-anatomical linkages, clinical implications, its role in non-neurological events and future directions should need to be further investigated Therefore this present research topic on TCR would mainly focus on various aspects of TCR and present a comprehensive and exhaustive overview about a phenomena that gains more and more interest during the last few years Our goal is to present models about the different aspects of the TCR to develop in depth understanding of TCR     The New Orleans Medical and Surgical Journal ,1923     Plastic Surgery E-Book: 6 - Volume Set Peter C.
