The Road to Nowhere Jacob S. Hacker, 2020-11-10 During the 1992 presidential campaign health care reform became a hot issue paving the way for one of the most important yet ill fated social policy initiatives in American history Bill Clinton's 1993 proposal for comprehensive coverage under managed competition Here Jacob Hacker not only investigates for the first time how managed competition became the president's reform framework but also illuminates how issues and policies emerge He follows Clinton's policy ideas from their initial formulation by policy experts through their endorsement by medical industry leaders and politicians to their inclusion in a new and unexpected form in the proposal itself Throughout he explores key questions Why did health reform become a national issue in the 1990s Why did Clinton choose managed competition over more familiar options during the 1992 presidential campaign What effect did this have on the fate of his proposal Drawing on records of the President's task force interviews with a wide range of key policy players and many other sources Hacker locates his analysis within the context of current political theories on agenda setting He concludes that Clinton chose managed competition partly because advocates inside and outside the campaign convinced him that it represented a unique middle road to health care reform This conviction Hacker maintains blinded the president and his allies to the political risks of the approach and hindered the development of an effective strategy for enacting it Federally of 1944 Jeffry M. Diefendorf, 2015-03-05 During World War II many European government authorities and planners believed that the damage caused by bombing constituted a great opportunity to transform their cities Even as the fighting continued a great many plans were drawn up and this has been the subject of much scholarship However what is often overlooked is wartime planning in cities not damaged in the war United States cities were not bombed but in Boston one of its leading cities the last years of the war brought a major effort to encourage both new plans to modernize the city and also means of implementing those plans The wartime initiative to transform Boston had several sources Both the Great Depression and the war had led to major measures by the federal government to try to deal with fiscal challenges and the need for new housing for the many people who relocated during the war because of the creation of new industries to help the war effort Boston hoped it could benefit from these measures Moreover in the late 1930s Harvard University had become a key residence for figures important in modernist planning including Joseph Hudnut Walter Gropius and Martin Wagner These factors combined in 1944 to inspire what was called The Boston Contest Its goal was to suggest solutions to many problems found in the metropolitan area These issues included commercial and industrial developments housing transportation education recreation welfare urban finances metropolitan government and citizen participation in solving problems This book published in 1945 contains the top 3 prize winning entries and excerpts from 9 of the other nearly 100 entries It gives a fascinating insight into the developing ideas of urban planning in the United States at a critical juncture Planningweek , 1996 Auctioning Public Assets Maarten Christiaan Wilhelmus Janssen, 2004 In many countries all over the world governments are privatising firms that were previously under public control This is happening for example in public utility sectors such as gas water and electricity in transport sectors such as rail and metro and in radio and telephony This book provides an overview of the economic issues that are involved in this transfer of ownership of public assets Combining a theoretical framework with a set of case studies of recent sales of state owned assets from Europe and the USA it asks which sort of allocation mechanism can a government adopt Which is most suited to a particular sale And how will the choice of allocation mechanism affect future market outcomes With contributions from international experts this book offers an accessible introduction to auction theory and an invaluable non technical analysis of existing knowledge It will be of interest to students non specialists and policy makers alike Graphic Showbiz Nanabanyin Dadson, 2010-06-10 Urban Regeneration, Community Power and the (In)Significance of 'Race' Paul J. Maginn, 2017-11-30 The concepts of community consultation and participation have come to dominate academic and policy debate about urban regeneration partnerships However there has been relatively little discussion about the nature of community power within regeneration partnerships Adopting an ethnographic approach in the study of community participation and power and the significance of race in three ethnically diverse neighbourhoods in London this book highlights that there has been a pluralistic turn in British urban regeneration policy Local communities often portrayed as the least powerful partner within partnerships are shown to use various strategies to influence decision making thus giving rise to a new typology of pluralism pragmatic hyper and paternalistic Furthermore the significance of race and racism within community forums and regeneration partnerships is challenged The playful use of the term In Significance in the title is linked to the argument that although racism exists race does not always matter
