Successful Grant Writing Kevin J. Lyons

PhD, Laura N. Gitlin PhD, 2008-05-05 This fully updated and revised edition of a classic guide to grant writing for health and human service professionals reflects the two major changes in the field: new NIH application processes and an increased emphasis on interprofessional and team approaches to science. New case examples reflect grant writing strategies for a great variety of health and human service professions and the text includes an enhanced focus on online methods for organizing grant submissions. A new section on special considerations for submitting grants addresses specific types of research including community based participatory research, mixed methods, behavioral intervention research, and dissertation and mentorship proposals. The new chapter on common writing challenges and solutions provides examples of strong and weak statements and highlights the importance of writing with precision. Additionally, this new edition provides an expanded section on post award requirements and links to NIH videos about grant writing. Written for individuals in both academic and practice settings, the guide addresses step by step the fundamental principles for effectively securing funding. It is the only book to provide grant writing information that encompasses many disciplines and to focus on building a research career with grant writing as a step by step process. It provides detailed, time tested strategies for building an investigative team, highlights the challenges of collaboration, and describes how to determine the expertise needed for a team and the roles of co investigators. The book addresses the needs of both novice and more experienced researchers. New to the Fourth Edition: Reflects recent changes to the field including an emphasis on interprofessional approaches to science and new NIH application processes. Offers additional case examples relevant to social work, nursing, psychology, rehabilitation, and occupational physical and speech therapies. Provides links to NIH websites containing videos on grant writing. Includes chapter opener objectives. Expands section on post award requirements. Focuses on electronic mechanisms for organizing grant submissions.

Grantsmanship for New Investigators Thomas F. Hilton, Carl G. Leukefeld, 2018-10-30 This compact resource analyzes and demystifies the processes of applying for competing for and getting funding for research. Neither a cookbook nor a template, it encourages readers to apply the critical thinking and attention to detail they use in their investigations to the pursuit of the grant. Chapters delve into choosing among funding options, project planning, and writing, filling out the materials in the application packet, and troubleshooting for problems at various steps of the journey. Along the way, the authors also explore common myths of grantsmanship and alert readers to hidden pitfalls that can get an otherwise good submission rejected. Among the core skill areas covered: Using strategic thinking throughout the application process. Understanding the major grant mechanisms. Navigating the grant timeline, including the peer review and the vetting process. Writing the effective project description. Following up if the project is not funded or funding is deferred. Building a career.
