Recombination during meiosis

Recombination is the exchange of DNA segments between non-sister chromatids of a pair of homologous chromosomes. This process occurs during Prophase I of Meiosis I. Recombination results in the formation of new genetic combinations, which are passed on to the daughter cells. This process is essential for genetic diversity. The diagram illustrates the process of recombination during Meiosis I, showing the exchange of DNA segments between non-sister chromatids of a pair of homologous chromosomes.
