against the outside world? Temperature is high. The skin is hot. The immune response is dependent on temperature. Morphology is not.

5. Explain the role of sweat glands in temperature regulation mechanisms.

In your explanation, explain how their activity is regulated. Sweat glands are activated by the sympathetic ANS. The body is cooled via the evaporation of sweat.

The substance causing changes in the color of the skin is the melanin pigment of the dermis region. Two types of melanin that can be detected by means of the chromatin treatment are: melanin, melanin, and melanin.
