The Report: Saudi Arabia 2015 Oxford Business Group, 2015-09-22 While Saudi Arabia's economy remains dominated by its hydrocarbons sector several other sectors have emerged in recent years as key propellers of economic growth The Kingdom's financial services industries have continued to expand steadily despite the liquidity challenges posed by falling oil prices Trade and investment are being treated as key priorities as the government looks to negotiate this altered economic landscape aiming to leverage its large population high per capita income and many sea and air links The country's capital markets sector meanwhile is poised for a period of significant growth on the back of the opening of Tadawul to international investors in 2015 and the raft of regulatory upgrades implemented as result The domestic insurance industry which remains dominated by the motor and medical segments has enjoyed double-digit growth over the past five years in both revenue and net profit Elsewhere the targets outlined in Vision 2030 indicate that a period of greater opportunity and integration is on the horizon for private players operating in core sectors such as health care utilities industry and ICT

Discrimination based on Colour, Ethnic Origin, Language, Religion and Belief in Turkey's Education System Nurcan Kaya, 2015-10-27 The Turkish government is urged to make a fundamental shift in its approach to education by Minority Rights Group International MRG in a new report A long-standing focus on state building has been supplemented by increasing emphasis on religious teaching Both feature strongly in the education system in Turkey making schools a focus of discrimination The report

Discrimination based on Colour Ethnic Origin Language Religion and Belief in Turkey s Education System reveals evidence of discrimination of minority groups and suggests comprehensive reforms to effectively ensure equality The national education system which for decades aimed to create young Turkish nationalists has in recent years become a vehicle for raising young religious Turkish nationalists says Nurcan Kaya Turkey Coordinator of Minority Rights Group International Religious education is compulsory from grade four in primary schools While some information on world religions has been introduced the emphasis remains on teaching Sunni Muslim religious practices Children of Jewish and Christian families may apply to opt out but the process can be cumbersome and in many schools alternatives are not provided for them Non Muslim students who have opted out can still find themselves having to remain in the religious instruction class or alternatively having to wander in the school corridor making them vulnerable to taunts from pupils and even teachers The opt out possibility is still not available to children of other minorities Another issue is mother tongue education In 2012 a new elective on the living languages and dialects in Turkey was introduced but due to various limitations minorities remain marginalised others in the education system Subsequent to the 2012 reform the report monitors discrimination in the formal education system in the period of the academic year of 2014 2015 The findings are based on the field work of the Monitoring Discrimination in Education Network an alliance of 16 organizations working in Turkey The report compiles numerous cases of discrimination based on language religion ethnicity skin colour and the level of income In order to bring about a fundamental solution to these problems in the education system the government must prioritise developing an approach that sees all groups as equal and that responds to demands for rights based on such an understanding of equality says Kaya The report highlights that Turkey has no anti discrimination law or an equality commission to which victims of discrimination can apply The existing legislation contains no effective and accessible means of judicial remedies or compensation Therefore many discriminatory practices are not reported to school administrations The entire education system is based on Turkishness Non Turkish groups are either not referred to or referred in a negative way says Kaya Education system has played a significant role in deepening conflict in society The positive representation of other groups in the education system would contribute to social peace and harmony In order to resolve the many problems in the education system that the current approach causes the overall aim of government education policy should be cleared of ideological references and the protection of children s best interests and the right to education in line with international standards should be considered its fundamental goal says the report

Irish Education Antonia McManus,2014-07-07 In this important new work the author analyses the contributions that our Ministers for Education made to the Irish education system between the years 1919 and 1999 Covering the social economic and political realities of the time and taking in the involvement of the OECD what emerges is a picture of how Irish education was shaped and moulded over the course of the twentieth century The Meritocracy Trap Daniel Markovits,2020-09-08

A revolutionary new argument from eminent Yale Law professor Daniel Markovits attacking the false promise of meritocracy. It is an axiom of American life that advantage should be earned through ability and effort. Even as the country divides itself at every turn, the meritocratic ideal that social and economic rewards should follow achievement rather than breeding reigns supreme. Both Democrats and Republicans insistently repeat meritocratic notions. Meritocracy cuts to the heart of who we are. It sustains the American dream. But what if both up and down the social ladder, meritocracy is a sham. Today meritocracy has become exactly what it was conceived to resist: a mechanism for the concentration and dynastic transmission of wealth and privilege across generations. Upward mobility has become a fantasy, and the embattled middle classes are now more likely to sink into the working poor than to rise into the professional elite. At the same time, meritocracy now ensnares even those who manage to claw their way to the top, requiring rich adults to work with crushing intensity, exploiting their expensive educations in order to extract a return. All this is not the result of deviations or retreats from meritocracy but rather stems directly from meritocracy's successes. This is the radical argument that Daniel Markovits prosecutes with rare force. Markovits is well placed to expose the sham of meritocracy. Having spent his life at elite universities, he knows from the inside the corrosive system we are trapped within. Markovits also knows that if we understand that meritocratic inequality produces near-universal harm, we can cure it. When The Meritocracy Trap reveals the inner workings of the meritocratic machine, it also illuminates the first steps outward towards a new world that might once again afford dignity and prosperity to the American people.

The Allied Defense of the Malay Barrier, 1941-1942 Tom Womack, 2015-12-01. Though few realize it, the Netherlands East Indies were the object of Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor in December 1941. Likewise, their invasions of Guam, Wake Island, and the Philippines were mainly diversionary operations to safeguard their main assault on Dutch and British colonies. Since the end of World War I, Japan had coveted the vast East Indies oil reserves, and the colony had feared invasion since Germany overran Holland in May 1940. Isolated politically, the weakly defended archipelago was a tempting prize. The East Indies government initially maintained a strict policy of neutrality while desperately working to build up its military strength. As Japanese actions pushed the region toward war, the Dutch reluctantly embraced closer ties with America and Britain. For a brief period, the East Indies were key players in Pacific War strategy. This book details for the first time in English the Dutch prewar strategy, their efforts to counter Japanese espionage, and their sizable though largely forgotten military contribution in the early months of the Pacific War.
