

Journal Report 1 (JR1)

Journal Report 1 (JR1) highlights the total number of successful full-text article requests by month and by journal. Librarians commonly use JR1 metrics to analyse user activity across online journals to which their institution provides access. The statistics may relate to individual journal subscriptions or to full-text databases that bundle together a large number of titles. As JR1 supplies data for the total number of article downloads from individual titles, across a selected time period, libraries can gain valuable insight into which online journals are popular/not so popular with their patrons. Librarians may find it helpful to group journals into basic categories of use (e.g. high, medium, low) to make their analysis easier to understand. The limits for these usage bands would be set by library staff, and may well differ between institutions.

For example, a library may choose to classify as 'high use' a title that has received more than 100 downloads in any given period; 'medium use' may mean total downloads between 51 and 100, and so on. The usage ranges can be reviewed regularly to check if the library's journal provision is providing adequate support.

Gutman, 2024-06-01 The ability to demonstrate that a specific health care profession provides valuable and effective services that meet society's health needs is a major objective for all health care academicians and researchers. Such skills are critical to ensure service reimbursement from an increasingly small pool of health care dollars. Demonstrating clinical effectiveness depends on the reporting of written research results through journal publication so that the health care community and larger society will be able to access and read evidence supporting health care services. Today several clinical reporting standard guidelines have been created by researchers to enhance the ability of readers to evaluate the quality and value of studies. Journal Article Writing and Publication is the first text to compile those clinical research reporting standards in one source and helps educators and novice researchers to better understand the skills needed for journal publication. Health care researchers must begin using these reporting standards in order to write manuscripts that are both correctly formatted and transparently convey all critical study strengths and limitations. Educators must teach these reporting standards to students who must evaluate research reports as consumers and possible future contributors to the literature through their own writing. Journal Article Writing and Publication by Dr Sharon A Gutman, a former editor of the American Journal of Occupational Therapy, provides specific guidelines based on the most commonly accepted reporting standards for the preparation and writing of general research studies, intervention effectiveness studies, instrument development and testing studies, and case reports. A section is devoted to helping authors understand the rules governing the reporting of statistical data in text and tables. Separate sections help authors understand the manuscript preparation and submission process, the revision process, and the etiquette guiding communication with editors and reviewers. Guidelines for the preparation of scholarly discussion papers and editorials are also provided. Journal Article Writing and Publication also features a section that aims to help doctoral students and newly minted faculty turn academic work and dissertations into publishable journal articles. Suggestions are provided to help clinicians turn clinical data into research databases that could serve as the foundation for pilot studies. Finally, information is provided to help authors better understand the ethical considerations of publication, including plagiarism, dual submissions, inappropriate authorship, copyright, and conflict of interest.

Writing Your Journal Article in Twelve Weeks, Second Edition Wendy Laura Belcher, 2019-06-07. Wow! No one ever told me this. Wendy Laura Belcher has heard this countless times throughout her years of teaching and advising academics on how to write journal articles. Scholars know they must publish, but few have been told how to do so. So Belcher made it her mission to demystify the writing process. The result was Writing Your Journal Article in Twelve Weeks, which takes this overwhelming task and breaks it into small, manageable steps. For the past decade, this guide has been the go-to source for those creating articles for peer-reviewed journals. It has enabled thousands to overcome their anxieties and produce the publications that are essential to succeeding in their fields. With this new edition, Belcher expands her advice to reach beginning scholars in even more disciplines. She builds on feedback from professors and graduate students who have successfully used the workbook to complete their articles. A new chapter addresses scholars who are writing from scratch. This edition also includes more targeted exercises.

and checklists as well as the latest research on productivity and scholarly writing Writing Your Journal Article in Twelve Weeks is the only reference to combine expert guidance with a step by step workbook Each week readers learn a feature of strong articles and work on revising theirs accordingly Every day is mapped out taking the guesswork and worry out of writing There are tasks templates and reminders At the end of twelve weeks graduate students recent PhDs postdoctoral fellows adjunct instructors junior faculty and international faculty will feel confident they know that the rules of academic publishing and have the tools they need to succeed
