

THE ICRC RESPONSE TO THE EL NINO FLOODING IN SOMALIA

OCTOBER 2023 - JANUARY 2024

In late August 2023, based on meteorological forecasts from the Red Cross Red Crescent Climate Centre and other sources, and in anticipation of severe humanitarian need, the ICRC took the decision to pivot the Somalia programme to prepare for and respond to expected extreme flooding caused by El Niño. Existing activities in the south of Somalia were put on hold and the Delegation refocused on expected divisive flooding along the Shabelle and Juba rivers in October. This is the first instance of the ICRC undertaking an Anticipatory Action based approach at a whole of delegation level, using scientific climate data to anticipate, prepare for and respond to humanitarian crises at scale ahead of disaster striking.

This document provides a brief analysis of the response, actions undertaken by the ICRC and its partner the Somali Red Crescent Society (SRCS) and key learning points.
