Wong, 2025-04-18 In Unruly Comparison Alvin K Wong examines queerness in Hong Kong through a transdisciplinary analysis of Sinophone literature cinema visual culture and civil society Moving beyond Eurocentrism in queer theory and China centrism in area studies Wong frames Hong Kong as a model for global comparison by theorizing a method of unruly comparison acknowledging the incommensurability of cultural texts and queer figures across different temporal and spatial locations Here unruly comparison positions Hong Kong as an undefinable time space that troubles historicist colonial and China centric renderings of the city as merely a site of British colonial legacy Chinese rule or global capital Wong analyzes queer interracial desire in WWII a cinema of gay male cosmopolitanism queer intimacy among migrant workers trans visibility and legality cross border sex work and the queer diaspora of Hong Kong after the 2019 protests Through Wong s readings Hong Kong becomes a queer region of racial gender and sexual incommensurability By foregrounding the friction asymmetry and perverse juxtapositions of unruly comparison of Hong Kong with the Sinophone world Wong reframes key debates in queer theory and East Asian studies Dislocating Anthropology? Simon Coleman, Peter Collins, 2020-05-15 Anthropology continues to develop both in terms of theory and in relation to the ways in which fieldwork is conducted Dislocating Anthropology seeks to capture and represent these developments through a collection of ethnographic essays that are cutting edge but which do not represent a complete break with what has gone before In recent years anthropologists have increasingly come to accept that fieldwork in bounded and discrete places is no longer tenable People can no longer be represented in these static parochial terms At the start of the 21st century and with the possibility of internet connections almost anywhere we have the potential to move even when we are stationary Each of the contributors to this collection have identified and attempted to understand sets of relationships that are both temporally and spatially dynamic that appear to flow into and out of the field Together the chapters shed light on a number of methodological conundrums or dislocations relating for example to locality identity fieldwork and reflexivity The book is concerned with dislocation as both practice and process and as such extends a theme that has arguably been central to Anthropology since Malinowski s Trobriand ethnography The World of Carolus Clusius Florike Egmond, 2015-10-06 Egmond s study investigates horticultural techniques fashions in the collection of rare plants botanical experimentation and methods of scientific evaluation as well as tracking the exchange of knowledge Central to this activity is the figure of Carolus Clusius 1526 1609 the first truly scientific botanist Cutting the Vines of the Past Tamara Giles-Vernick, 2002 Cutting the Vines of the Past offers a novel argument African ways of seeing and interpreting their environments and past are not only critical to how historians write environmental history they also have important lessons for policymakers and conservationists Tamara Giles Vernick demonstrates how various outsiders intervening in African land use practices have repeatedly met failure because of their inability or unwillingness to understand how Africans see their land and their pasts Giles Vernick takes as her focus doli the environmental and historical perceptions and knowledge of the Mpiemu people in the Central African Republic She argues that Mpiemu opposition to a modern environmental conservation project the Dzanga Ndoki National Park and the Dzanga Sangha Special Reserve derives from the people's interpretations of their past experiences with environmental interventions imposed by concessionary companies colonial officials other Africans Christian missionaries and the postcolonial state At the same time Mpiemu people associate these contemporary conservationists with the bosses and Christian missionaries of the colonial past viewing them as sources of jobs consumer goods and other support Giles Vernick's argument will interest conservationists and policymakers as well as environmental historians By examining Africans environmental and historical ways of seeing and knowing and by revealing how these have changed Giles Vernick offers a fresh perspective on the writing of environmental history character and how the embodiment of the voice goes beyond character stereotypes how Romeo Catellucci legitimized the audience's gaze whilst staging brain damaged patients interculturalism in a new operatic work focusing on the current Israeli Palestinian crisis interrogating transgenerational depictions of Otherness in the Rocky Horror Show musical speech in Iannis Xenakis reworking of ancient Greek in his Oresteia genre conflation in terms of unaccompanied monodrama trans genre adaptation in Strauss's Der Rosenkavalier and Philip Glass's Cocteau trilogy and textual and musical comedy in Ligeti's Le Grand Macabre among others

The Navel of the Demoneess Charles Ramble, 2007-12-10 This groundbreaking study focuses on a village called Te in a Tibetanized region of northern Nepal While Te's people are nominally Buddhist and engage the services of resident Tibetan Tantric priests for a range of rituals they are also exponents of a local religion that involves blood sacrifices to wild unconverted territorial gods and goddesses The village is unusual in the extent to which it has maintained its local autonomy and also in the degree to which both Buddhism and the cults of local gods have been subordinated to the pragmatic demands of the village community Charles Ramble draws on extensive fieldwork as well as 300 years worth of local historical archives in Tibetan and Nepali to re-examine the subject of confrontation between Buddhism and indigenous popular traditions in the Tibetan cultural sphere He argues that Buddhist ritual and sacrificial cults are just two elements in a complex system of self government that has evolved over the centuries and has developed the character of a civil religion This civil religion he shows is remarkably well adapted to the preservation of the community against the constant threats posed by external attack and the self interest of its own members The beliefs and practices of the local popular religion a highly developed legal tradition and a form of government that is both democratic and accountable to its people all these are shown to have developed to promote survival in the face of past and present dangers Ramble's account of how both secular and religious institutions serve as the building blocks of civil society opens up vistas with important implications for Tibetan culture as a whole

Paul and Diversity Linda Joelsson, 2023-07-31 This book investigates attitudes toward diversity as expressed in Paul's letter to the Galatians and proposes a renewed understanding of the term as used in this letter sarx is usually translated as flesh and has often been perceived in theological studies as a complicated and highly polysemous term It is also a word whose interpretations have had far reaching social political and religious consequences throughout history The author argues in this volume that for Paul the term is commonly adopted with reference to the collective group and in light of a sense of collective identity in particular A key assertion is that Paul was and remained a Jew and also continued to be deeply concerned with the prospects for the peaceful co existence of Jews and Gentiles in the assemblies of God The chapters draw on perspectives from classical rhetoric modern linguistics and social systems theory in order to describe the communicative structure of the letter the construct of collective identity as described within this setting and the potential for resilience in this construct Offering a more coherent reading of Galatians the book contributes positively to current discussions in Pauline studies and will be of interest to scholars of biblical studies and theology The Open Access version of this book available at www.taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license Funded by European Union's Horizon 2020 under Marie Skłodowska Curie grant agreement 897430
