Constitutionalism and the Enlargement of Europe Wojciech Sadurski,2012-07-26 After the fall of Communism in Central and Eastern Europe CEE the newly democratized countries of this region joined two main pan European political and legal structures the Council of Europe and the European Union This book shows how the Eastward enlargement of these two structures fostered the constitutionalization both of the Council of Europe and of the EU Prompted by the enlargement of the Council of Europe and the admission of a number of countries which brought unique and often more substantial problems onto the Court s agenda the main judicial body of the Council of Europe the European Court of Human Rights became a quasi constitutional court of Europe This book demonstrates that this was primarily as a result of the widening of its agenda and the resulting need to make activist decisions about the compatibility of national laws with the European Convention In terms of the EU the book shows that the enlargement first prospective and then actual has been an important agenda setter for the constitutionalization of the EU in particular for openly placing the issue of fundamental rights on the EU agenda as a legitimate and indispensable matter of concern for the EU But the constitutional synergies were a two way street the accession to both pan European structures has also affected the development of democratic constitutionalism in CEE states It has raised difficult issues regarding the relationships between national sovereignty democracy and human rights that CEE policy makers have grappled with these issues and responses by CEE member states have had implications for the old EU member states as well These dynamics are explored through various case studies providing a new perspective on the
