

Course Description:

AP Language and Composition is designed to advance student skills in critically reading a wide variety of texts, and effectively writing responses and arguments. The course is designed to be equivalent to an entry-level college English course, and it is therefore more rigorous, both in quantity and quality of readings and writings, than other high school Language Arts courses.

As delineated by the College Board, AP Language will acquaint students with readings and writings that are expository, argumentative, evaluative, and narrative. Daily texts will be predominantly non-fiction, and in essay form, but there will also be some fiction and poetry assigned to meet local standards. These fictional texts will be used to help students formulate critical analysis and arguments that focus on the author, purpose, audience connection.

The study of logic, Aristotelian-style, will be learned and used, as well as applying logic and evaluation to arguments, sources, and images. Visual literacy, and the discerning of visual arguments, is another necessary skill, and part of the course is designed to meet this need. In addition, students will pay particular attention to the relationship between writer and audience, as well as how each relates to the material, by studying and applying the Aristotelian Triangle and use of tone, syntax, diction, and more.

As analyzing others' rhetoric and applying these skills to writing is preparation for a successful college education, so is being able to orally present argument and information, and therefore, this course will also integrate speaking skills and information presentation in its scope. Socratic seminars will be an ongoing process, as will formal speeches and multimedia presentations. Students will also be expected to learn better research methods and discernment, and apply the MLA guidelines to their formal writing.

As successfully passing the AP Language and Composition Exam is often considered the equivalent of a first-year College English course, the objectives of this course are to meet those same standards. Students will, upon successful completion of the course, be prepared for further college-level thinking, writing, reading, and information processing.
