Africa in Global Context LI Anshan, 2022-02-23 This book studies the relationship between China and Africa by reviewing this history and current state of interactions offering a valuable addition to the often heated and contentious debate surrounding China's engagement in Africa from a Chinese angle. Comprising four parts, the book covers a kaleidoscopic range of topics on China-Africa relations based on materials from different languages. Part I looks into early historical contact between China and Africa and the historiography of African Studies in China in recent decades. Part II probes the origins, dynamics, challenges, and cultural heritage of China's policies towards Africa. Part III explores the issue of development cooperation from both a theoretical and a practical point of view with a focus on the case of Chinese medical teams in Africa and China's technology transfer to the continent. Part IV illustrates bilateral migration, discussing the history and life of Chinese immigrants in Africa and the African diaspora in China. The insights in this book, as well as real-life case studies, will make this work an indispensable reference for academics, students, policy makers, and general readers who are interested in international issues and area studies, especially China-Africa relations, China's rise, and African development.

The Convention on Biological Diversity and Developing Countries G.K. Rosendal, 2013-03-09 The book focuses on the negotiation process leading up to the creation of the Convention on Biodiversity (CBD) and the domestic implementation of this international agreement. This political science study of the negotiation process applies several perspectives drawn from international relations theories while also focusing on the implementation of international environmental agreements in a developing country. Moreover, the links between factors at international and domestic levels are examined with four proposed mechanisms through which an international institution may affect domestic policies. Evidence is found that the CBD has had a beneficial impact on national biodiversity policies in the country studied, but that necessary compatible legislation is absent in developed countries. Readership: Policy makers, decision makers, political scientists, lawyers, and environmentalists engaged in development assistance work and academics and industrialists involved in the biotechnology industry.
