

The background of the entire image is a photograph of a person's silhouette, seen from the back and slightly to the side, looking at a display of various sunglasses. The sunglasses are arranged on several horizontal shelves. The person's head is in the lower center, and their hair is visible. The sunglasses come in many different styles, colors, and frames, including aviators, wrap-around styles, and rectangular frames. The colors of the lenses range from clear and light blue to dark, mirrored, and even some with colored tints like orange and green. The shelves are thin and light-colored, creating a grid-like structure for the sunglasses.

Economic Prehistory Gregory K. Dow, Clyde G. Reed, 2023-01-05 Around 15 000 years ago almost all humans lived in small mobile foraging bands By about 5 000 years ago the first city states had appeared This radical transformation in human society laid the foundations for the modern world We use economic logic and archaeological evidence to explain six key elements in this revolution sedentism agriculture inequality warfare cities and states In our approach the ultimate cause of these events was climate change We show how shifts in climate interacted with geography to drive technological innovation and population growth The accumulation of population at especially rich locations led to creation of group property rights over land stratification into elite and commoner classes and warfare over land among rival elites This set the stage for urbanization based on manufacturing or military defense and for elite controlled states based on taxation Our closing chapter shows how these developments eventually resulted in contemporary global civilization

Is Social Justice Just? Robert M. Whaples, Michael C. Munger, Christopher J. Coyne, 2023-05-31 Anyone concerned with social justice will find this book makes him question his assumptions, rethink his premises and think. Andrew P. Morriss, professor, Bush School of Government and Public Service, School of Law, Texas A and the answers have been as earnest as they have been varied. Today our expert class also claim to have answers, updated answers, more equitable answers, more technological answers, in short answers that are simply better suited to our times. But are those answers in any way correct? Do they work? Are they just? In these elegant, nuanced essays the authors use the wisdom of ancient and modern philosophers to shed light on these important questions and the answers are revealing. Armed with ample evidence from real world experiences, lessons from history, the wisdom of the classics, modern philosophers and even the teachings of the world religions, the contributors of Is Social Justice Just? illuminate the central role of the individual in achieving justice in all its aspects. Read Is Social Justice Just? and discover how to do social justice wrong with the poison of resentment, envy and ignorance; how to do social justice right with the insights of philosophers and theologians; how to respect people's rights and liberties without sacrificing true equality; and how to reform flawed public policies that just make everything worse. In a world of partisanship, hysteria, maliciousness and good intentions attached to hellish outcomes, this landmark book enters the public discourse at a critical time. With a foreword by Jordan B. Peterson, a preface by Nicholas Rescher and a collection of essays by some of the best and brightest scholars of our time, Is Social Justice Just? is a timely and urgent work. Read it and you will begin to think about social justice and justice in some surprising new ways.

International Labor Migration and Livelihood Security in Nepal Knerr, Beatrice, 2017-07-11 As measured by its per capita income, Nepal is one of the poorest countries in the world with large parts of its population trapped in poverty within a stunning but difficult to control natural environment. Under these conditions, since the wake of the 21st century, international labour migration and the associated remittances of large amounts of foreign exchange have rapidly gained influence on the country's economic and social development, triggered by internal disturbances, in particular economic downturn and political upheavals, as well as external dynamics which boosted an uprising international demand for unskilled labour. While there is hardly any basic dissent about the short to mid term positive growth effect for Nepal's economy, surprisingly little is known about the consequences of this form of livelihood security at the individual household level, apart from some anecdotal evidence, although neither policy makers nor NGOs may effectively craft their strategies without considering this phenomenon. This book was developed from an Alumni Workshop held in Kathmandu in 2015 where focusing on this knowledge gap, wide ranging original research about the consequences of family members' absence and the receipt of remittances was presented. Moving on from this starting point, the authors further elaborated their work to make it accessible to a broader public and exploitable as a resource for policy making and follow up research In addition this volume includes detailed facts and figures about outmigration from and inflow of remittances to Nepal With a view to long term development implications of international migration it also considers the gain of knowledge and access to international academic networks brought into the country by returned scholars The editor of the volume B atrice Knerr is a professor of development economics affiliated to the University of Kassel Germany where until 2015 she was heading the Department of Development Economics Migration and Agricultural Policy DEMAP Afterwards she has served as guest professor at the Universidad Autonoma de Yucatan UADY in Merida Mexico and at the College of Economics of Hue University Vietnam Presently she is on contract with the Brawijaya University of Malang Indonesia where she is joining research projects on rural development and teaching various modules in the Economics Faculty As an expert in the implications of labour migration on the development of low to middle income countries she has published and edited around 30 books and 100 journal articles and book chapters
