Rule Britannia Danny Dorling, 2019-01-15 Things fall apart when empires crumble. This time we think things will be different. They are not. This time we are told we will become great again. We will not. In this new edition of the hugely successful Rule Britannia, Danny Dorling and Sally Tomlinson argue that the vote to leave the EU was the last gasp of the old empire working its way out of the British psyche. Fuelled by a misplaced nostalgia, the result was driven by a lack of knowledge of Britain's imperial history, by a profound anxiety about Britain's status today, and by a deeply unrealistic vision of our future.

Good Economics for Hard Times Abhijit V. Banerjee, Esther Duflo, 2019-11-12 The winners of the Nobel Prize show how economics, when done right, can help us solve the thorniest social and political problems of our day. Figuring out how to deal with today's critical economic problems is perhaps the great challenge of our time. Much greater than space travel or perhaps even the next revolutionary medical breakthrough, what is at stake is the whole idea of the good life as we have known it. Immigration and inequality, globalization and technological disruption, slowing growth and accelerating climate change: these are sources of great anxiety across the world, from New Delhi and Dakar to Paris and Washington DC. The resources to address these challenges are there; what we lack are ideas that will help us jump the wall of disagreement and distrust that divides us. If we succeed, history will remember our era with gratitude; if we fail, the potential losses are incalculable. In this revolutionary book, renowned MIT economists Abhijit V. Banerjee and Esther Duflo take on this challenge, building on cutting-edge research in economics, explained with lucidity and grace. Original, provocative, and urgent, Good Economics for Hard Times makes a persuasive case for an intelligent interventionism and a society built on compassion and respect. It is an extraordinary achievement, one that shines a light to help us appreciate and understand our precariously balanced world.

Steel Odyssey Ohjoon KWON, JOO Choi, Hae-Geon LEE, 2024-07-15 In this wide-ranging interdisciplinary work, the authors draw on history, anthropology, and materials engineering to present a comprehensive and ambitious examination of the multifaceted roles of iron and steel throughout history and the current and future challenges faced by the steel industry. Ohjoon Kwon, JOO Choi, and Hae-Geon Lee provide readers with an in-depth understanding of the history of iron and steel and their impact on human society from a materials engineering perspective. They begin by describing the characteristics of iron and steel and the history of human use of and interaction with these metals, by compiling the fundamental knowledge necessary to understand iron's unique properties and metallurgical phenomena. Following this, they explain the influence of steel on human society and culture, focusing on the Industrial Revolution and warfare. They also give examples that are rarely discussed elsewhere, such as developments in Asia or iron's influence on thought and philosophy using Confucianism and Marxism as examples. Readers will then be able to apply this contextual knowledge to address the profound impact of emerging challenges, such as global environmental issues and the Fourth Industrial Revolution. Despite the technical nature of this book all terminology is fully explained to facilitate better comprehension for those who may not possess an engineering education or a direct interest in metallurgy This book is therefore invaluable not only as a technical book but also as a guide to the development history of human civilization and its future challenges Malaysian Media Studies: Integrating Perspectives (UM Press) Azizah Hamzah, Amira Firdaus, 2016 This edited volume revisits developments in the field of media education and media studies at a time when society is experiencing a ubiquitous networked digital media environment Rapid advances in media and communication technologies and the accompanying developments in social cultural political and economic realms pose unexpected challenges to the curricula of long established media and communication schools As opposed to rigidly structured nation based mass media systems of the past century the new global media sphere celebrates the breaking down of borders whether spatial cultural or social Today in the second half of the second decade of the 21st century this problem translates into what and how to teach students of media who in all likelihood are more adept media consumers and producers than their teachers In a region where educational institutions and educators don't transform as fast as media technologies do there is a need to problematize and to reflect upon the situation This edited volume examines critical issues related to media studies at local institutions of higher learning and includes a sampling of research charting new directions in local media scholarship Contributions to this edited volume reflect the shared concerns of media educators and researchers in Malaysia and two neighboring countries Indonesia and Thailand Three main themes underscore this volume reflecting their importance to the evolution of media education and to a certain extent research as well Historical development of media education and training Current developments and future trajectories of media education in a globalized digital media environment Analysis of media and society The Power of Not Thinking Simon Roberts, 2022-09-12 Details the role our body plays in how we learn and how we can tap into our body's knowledge to excel in all facets of life Ask someone to point to the part of their body responsible for their intelligence and it is highly likely that they will point at their head This assumption is understandable given that for centuries from Descartes cogito ergo sum to the computer age this is what we have been told to think And yet we all share common experiences that have revealed the incomparable power of not thinking Have you ever struggled to remember your pin number only to hold your fingers out and type it correctly with your hands played the piano without focusing on remembering the correct notes or listened to your gut feeling when under the pressure of a big decision All these instances prove that it is time to stop neglecting the role the body plays in our acquisition of knowledge and to explore how it is that brain and body combine to deliver what we view as uniquely human intelligence You never forgot how to ride a bike did you In this unique new book social and business anthropologist Simon Roberts looks at the pivotal role that our body plays in how we learn and reminds us of why we should learn to listen to it more often Drawing upon an incredible range of cutting edge science real life examples and personal experience Roberts explores the complexity of even the simplest of tasks that humans perform every day and goes on to explain how with a greater awareness of the processes at work we can tap into our full potential and excel in any area of our lives His proposition isn't the antidote to big data cold rationalism and reductionism But as embodied knowledge emerges from our engagement and interaction with the world the author underlines why intelligence does not solely reside in our brains If there's a single practical message to be taken from it it is that we should give more credit to the role of the body as a resource for learning about and understanding the world That means a more sleeves rolled up engaged and practical way of learning by doing not by rational detachment
