Geography Paper 2 November 2014:

Writing Home Glenn Morrison, 2017-01-30 Writing Home explores the literary representation of Australian places by those who have walked them. In particular, it examines how Aboriginal and settler narratives of walking have shaped portrayals of Australia's Red Centre and consequently ideas of nation and belonging. Central Australia has long been characterised as a frontier, the supposed divide between black and white, ancient and modern. But persistently representing it in this way is preventing Australians from reimagining this internationally significant region as home. Writing Home argues that the frontier no longer adequately describes Central Australia and that the Aboriginal songlines make a significant but under-acknowledged contribution to Australian discourses of hybridity, belonging and home. Drawing on anthropology, cultural theory, journalism, politics and philosophy, the book traces shifting perceptions of Australian place and space since precolonial times through six recounted walking journeys of the Red Centre.

The Local Impact of Globalization in South and Southeast Asia Bart Lambregts, Niels Beerepoot, Robert C. Kloosterman, 2015-08-27 In the past two decades, several millions of IT-enabled services jobs have been relocated or offshored from the US and Europe to, in particular, low-cost economies around the world. Most of these jobs so far have landed in South and South East Asia, with India and the Philippines receiving the bulk of them. This has caused profound changes in the international division of labour and has had correspondingly wide social and economic effects. This book examines how this next wave in globalization affects people and places in South and South East Asia. It brings together twelve case studies from India, the Philippines, China, Hong Kong and Thailand and explores how and for whom services offshoring creates opportunities, triggers local economic transformations and produces challenges. This book, in addition, compares how different countries take part in this second global shift, investigates service sector-driven economic development from a historical perspective and engages with the question whether and to what extent services offer a new promising avenue of sustained economic growth for developing countries. It argues that service-led development in developing countries is not easy for all the workers involved or a guaranteed path to sustained economic development and prosperity. This volume stands out from other books in the field in its exploration of the social and economic outcomes in the cities and countries where services have been located. Based on cutting-edge empirical research and original data, the volume offers a state-of-the-art contribution to this growing debate. The book provides valuable insights for students, scholars and professionals interested in services offshoring, socio-economic development and contemporary transformations in South and South East Asia.

Routledge Handbook of National and Regional Ocean Policies Biliana Cicin-Sain, David Vanderzwaag, Miriam C. Balgos, 2015-05-15 This comprehensive handbook, prepared by leading ocean policy academics and practitioners from around the world, presents in-depth analyses of the experiences of fifteen developed and developing nations and four key regions of the world that have taken concrete steps toward cross-cutting and integrated national and regional ocean policy. All chapters follow a common framework for policy analysis. While most coastal nations of the world already have a variety of sectoral policies in place to manage different uses of the ocean such as shipping fishing oil and gas development in the last two decades the coastal nations covered in the book have undertaken concerted efforts to articulate and implement an integrated ecosystem based vision for the governance of ocean areas under their jurisdiction This includes goals and procedures to harmonize existing uses and laws to foster sustainable development of ocean areas to protect biodiversity and vulnerable resources and ecosystems and to coordinate the actions of the many government agencies that are typically involved in oceans affairs The book highlights the serious conflicts of use in most national ocean zones and the varying attempts by nations to follow the prescriptions emanating from the 1982 UN Law of the Sea Convention and the outcomes of the 1992 2002 and 2012 sustainable development summits The interrelationship among uses and processes in the coast and ocean requires that ocean governance be integrated precautionary and anticipatory Overall the book provides a definitive state of the art review and analysis of national and regional ocean policies around the world Handbook of
