worked in the field of island restoration traveling throughout the American Insular Pacific to eradicate invasive plants and animals introduced by humans The region spans from Hawai i to Samoa to Guam and their neighbors small obscure tropical islands that are hundreds if not thousands of nautical miles from each other These little known US possessions and territories include various islands and atolls Jarvis Howland Baker the Northern Marianas Wake Palmyra Johnston and Rose Atoll among others They anchor a vast National Marine Monument program created in 2009 and expanded in 2014 to protect the largest area in the world from exploitation In Isles of Amnesia Rauzon chronicles the ecological and human history of these islands enlivened with his first hand experiences of eradication efforts to restore atoll ecosystems and maximize native biodiversity Each chapter focuses on an individual island or island group revealing how each location has its own particular story secret past or ecological lesson to be shared Taken as a whole the region has played a unique role in American history with the remoteness of the islands having served the needs of whalers and guano miners in the 1800s and in later years that of military secret projects missile launching chemical weapon incinerations and air bases Rauzon further explores the creation of the National Marine Monuments and what their protection means to a changing ocean and presents original research about the US military s Pacific Project and germ warfare testing Illustrated with over seventy historical photographs and original drawings this much needed work tells the fascinating story of America s forgotten Pacific islands

The War Lawyers Craig Jones, 2020-11-26 Over the last 20 years the world s most advanced militaries have invited a small number of military legal professionals into the heart of their targeting operations spaces which had previously been exclusively for generals and commanders These professionals trained and hired to give legal advice on an array of military operations have become known as war lawyers The War Lawyers examines the laws of war as applied by military lawyers to aerial targeting operations carried out by the US military in Iraq and Afghanistan and the Israel military in Gaza Drawing on interviews with military lawyers and others this book explains why some lawyers became integrated in the chain of command whereby military targets are identified and attacked whether by manned aircraft drones and or ground forces and with what results This book shows just how important law and military lawyers have become in the conduct of contemporary warfare and how it is understood Jones argues that circulations of law and policy between the US and Israel have bolstered targeting practices considered legally questionable contending that the involvement of war lawyers in targeting operations enables legitimises and sometimes even extends military violence

Technological Innovation in Legacy Sectors William B. Bonvillian, Charles Weiss, 2015-08-18 The American economy faces two deep problems expanding innovation and raising the rate of quality job creation Both have roots in a neglected problem the resistance of Legacy economic sectors to innovation While the U S has focused its policies on breakthrough innovations to create new economic frontiers like information technology and biotechnology most of its economy is locked into Legacy sectors defended by technological economic political social paradigms that block competition from disruptive innovations that could challenge their models Americans like to build technology covered wagons and take them out west to open new innovation frontiers we don't head our wagons back east to bring innovation to our Legacy sectors. By failing to do so, the economy misses a major opportunity for innovation which is the bedrock of U.S. competitiveness and its standard of living. Technological Innovation in Legacy Sectors uses a new unifying conceptual framework to identify the shared features underlying structural obstacles to innovation in major Legacy sectors: energy, air, and auto transport, the electric power grid, buildings, manufacturing, agriculture, health care, delivery, and higher education, and develops approaches to understand and transform them. It finds both strengths and obstacles to innovation in the national innovation environments, a new concept that combines the innovation system and the broader innovation context for a group of Asian and European economies. Manufacturing is a major Legacy sector that presents a particular challenge because it is a critical stage in the innovation process. By increasingly offshoring production, the U.S. is losing important parts of its innovation capacity. Innovate here, produce here, where the U.S. took all the gains of its strong innovation system at every stage, is being replaced by innovate there, produce there, which threatens to lead to produce there, innovate there. To bring innovation to Legacy sectors, authors William Bonvillian and Charles Weiss recommend that policymakers focus on all stages of innovation, from research through implementation. They should fill institutional gaps in the innovation system and take measures to address structural obstacles to needed disruptive innovations. In the specific case of advanced manufacturing, the production ecosystem can be recreated to reverse jobless innovation and add manufacturing-led innovation to the U.S.'s still strong research-oriented innovation system.

Production, Places and Environment Ray Hudson, 2014-09-25. Drawing upon 25 years of original research, Production, Places and Environment provides a unique combination of rich, varied, and theoretically informed case studies along with more general analyses of processes and changing theoretical and methodological perspectives in economic geography that are informed by original empirical research. Through a huge range of his own groundbreaking case material, the author explores such essential factors as space, production, social, and political concerns, and environmental issues, being careful to ground the more complex theory in the more general tendencies in economic geography and the social sciences.

Defence Planning and Uncertainty Stephan Frühling,2014-04-24 How can countries decide what kind of military forces they need if threats are uncertain and history is full of strategic surprises This is a question that is more pertinent than ever as countries across the Asia Pacific are faced with the military and economic rise of China Uncertainty is inherent in defence planning but different types of uncertainty mean that countries need to approach decisions about military force structure in different ways This book examines four different basic frameworks for defence planning and demonstrates how states can make decisions coherently about the structure and posture of their defence forces despite strategic uncertainty It draws on case studies from the United States Australian and New Zealand each of which developed key concepts for their particular circumstances and risk perception in Asia Success as well as failure in developing coherent defence planning frameworks holds lessons for the United States and other countries as they consider how best to structure their military forces for the uncertain challenges of the future Index - River Niger Commission River Niger Commission.
