Bart Lambregts,Niels Beerepoot,Robert Kloosterman,2015-08-27 In the past two decades several millions of IT enabled services jobs have been relocated or offshored from the US and Europe to in particular low cost economies around the world Most of these jobs so far have landed in South and South East Asia with India and the Philippines receiving the bulk of them This has caused profound changes in the international division of labour and has had correspondingly wide social and economic effects This book examines how this next wave in globalization affects people and places in South and South East Asia It brings together twelve case studies from India the Philippines China Hong Kong and Thailand and explores how and for whom services offshoring creates opportunities triggers local economic transformations and produces challenges This book in addition compares how different countries take part in this second global shift investigates service sector driven economic development from a historical perspective and engages with the question whether and to what extent services offer a new promising avenue of sustained economic growth for developing countries It argues that service led development in developing countries is not easy for all the workers involved or a guaranteed path to sustained economic development and prosperity This volume stands out from other books in the field in its exploration of the social and economic outcomes in the cities and countries where services have been located Based on cutting edge empirical research and original data the volume offers a state of the art contribution to this growing debate The book provides valuable insights for students scholars and professionals interested in services offshoring socio economic development and contemporary transformations in South and South East Asia The Wiley Handbook of Social Studies Research Meghan McGlinn Manfra,Cheryl Mason

Bolick,2017-03-13 The Wiley Handbook of Social Studies Research is a wide ranging resource on the current state of social studies education This timely work not only reflects on the many recent developments in the field but also explores emerging trends This is the first major reference work on social studies education and research in a decade An in depth look at the current state of social studies education and emerging trends Three sections cover foundations of social studies research theoretical and methodological frameworks guiding social studies research and current trends and research related to teaching and learning social studies A state of the art guide for both graduate students and established researchers Guided by an advisory board of well respected scholars in social studies education research African Scholars and Intellectuals in North American Academies Sabella Ogbobode Abidde,2020-11-29 This book examines the process and events surrounding the migration of African scholars as well as their lives and lived experiences within and outside of their colleges and universities The chapters chronicle the lived experiences and observations of African scholars in North America and examine a range of issues ideas and phenomena within North American colleges and universities The contributors examine the political ethnic or religious upheavals that informed their migration or banishment contrast the teaching learning research environment in Africa and North America and discuss on and off campus experience with segregation and racial inequality This book will be of interest to students and scholars of the African Diaspora migration and African Studies Urban Subversion and the Creative City Oli Mould,2015-03-27 Check out the author s video to find out more about the book <https://vimeo.com/124247409> This book provides a comprehensive critique of the current Creative City paradigm with a capital C and argues for a creative city with a small c via a theoretical exploration of urban subversion The book argues that the Creative City with a capital C is a systemic requirement of neoliberal capitalist urban development and part of the wider policy framework of creativity that includes the creative industries and the creative class and also has inequalities and injustices in built The book argues that the Creative City does stimulate creativity but through a reaction to it not as part of it Creative City policies speak of having mechanisms to stimulate individual collective or civic creativity yet through a theoretical exploration of urban subversion the book argues that to be truly creative is to be radically different from those creative practices that the Creative City caters for Moreover the book analyses the role that urban subversion and subcultures have in the contemporary city in challenging the dominant political economic hegemony of urban creativity Creative activities of people from cities all over the world are discussed and critically analysed to highlight how urban creativity has become co opted for political and economic goals but through a radical reconceptualisation of what creativity is that includes urban subversion we can begin to realise a creative city with a small c Meeting the Challenges to Measurement in an Era of Accountability Henry Braun,2016-01-29 Under pressure and support from the federal government states have increasingly turned to indicators based on student test scores to evaluate teachers and schools as well as students themselves The focus thus far has been on test scores in those subject areas where there is a sequence of consecutive tests such as in mathematics or English language arts with a focus on grades 4 8 Teachers in these subject areas however constitute less than thirty percent of the teacher workforce in a district Comparatively little has been written about the measurement of achievement in the other grades and subjects This volume seeks to remedy this imbalance by focusing on the assessment of student achievement in a broad range of grade levels and subject areas with particular attention to their use in the evaluation of teachers and schools in all It addresses traditional end of course tests as well as alternative measures such as portfolios exhibitions and student learning objectives In each case issues related to design and development psychometric considerations and validity challenges are covered from both a generic and a content specific perspective The NCME Applications of Educational Measurement and Assessment series includes edited volumes designed to inform research based applications of educational measurement and assessment Edited by leading experts these books are comprehensive and practical resources on the latest developments in the field The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No

Derivatives 4.0 license Growing Community Forests Ryan Bullock, Gayle Broad, Lynn Palmer, M.A. (Peggy) Smith, 2017-10-13 Canada is experiencing an unparalleled crisis involving forests and communities across the country While municipalities policy makers and industry leaders acknowledge common challenges such as an overdependence on US markets rising energy costs and lack of diversification no common set of solutions has been developed and implemented Ongoing and at times contentious public debate has revealed an appetite and need for a fundamental rethinking of the relationships that link our communities governments industrial partners and forests towards a more sustainable future The creation of community forests is one path that promises to build resilience in forest communities and ecosystems This model provides local control over common forest lands in order to activate resource development opportunities benefits and social responsibilities Implementing community forestry in practice has proven to be a complex task however there are no road maps or well developed and widely tested models for community forestry in Canada But in settings where community forests have taken hold there is a rich and growing body of experience to draw on The contributors to Growing Community Forests include leading researchers practitioners Indigenous representatives government representatives local advocates and students who are actively engaged in sharing experiences resources and tools of significance to forest resource communities policy makers and industry

Assessment in Geographical Education: An International Perspective Theresa Bourke, Reece Mills, Rod Lane, 2022-02-27 In recent years there has been increased attention paid to the importance of assessment in Geographical Education the chosen subject for this book Assessment is an important tool for collecting information about student learning and for providing timely data to inform key stakeholders including students teachers parents and policymakers To be effective assessment needs to be valid reliable and fair Validity is about ensuring that we assess what we claim we are assessing Reliability is about measuring performance and understanding in a consistent way Without validity and reliability assessment is unlikely to provide equitable opportunities for students to demonstrate what they know and can do As geography educators it is therefore important that we identify the core concepts and skills in geography that we want students to master We need a clear understanding of what the progression of learning looks like for each concept and skill so we can develop fit for purpose assessments that track and improve student learning While there is a substantial literature on evidence based assessment in secondary school contexts research exploring best practice assessment in geography is rare This is a concern given the distinctive nature of geography and the important role of assessment in the learning process This scholarly collection seeks to address this issue by connecting research in educational assessment with the domain of geography The chapters are written by leading researchers in Geographical Education from across the globe These chapters provide examples of innovation through the collective voices of geography teacher educator scholars from across Australia USA South Korea Germany Switzerland and Singapore What unifies the work in this book is that each chapter focuses on a key feature of the discipline of geography providing scholarly examples of evidence based practices for assessing student s knowledge and skills Yojana ,2014 Physical Activity and Educational

Achievement Romain Meeusen,Sabine Schaefer,Phillip Tomporowski,Richard Bailey,2017-08-07 A growing body of research evidence suggests that physical activity can have a positive effect on educational achievement This book examines a range of processes associated with physical activity that are of relevance to those working in education including cognition learning memory attention mood stress and mental health symptoms and draws on the latest insights from exercise neuroscience to help explain the evidence With contributions from leading scientists and educationalists from around the world this book cuts through the myths to interrogate the relationship between physical activity and educational achievement in children adolescents and young adults in a variety of cultural and geographical contexts Examining both the benefits and risks associated with physical activity from the perspectives of exercise science and educational psychology it also looks ahead to ask what the limits of this research might be and what effects it might have on the future practice of education Physical Activity and Educational Achievement Insights from Exercise Neuroscience is fascinating reading for any student academic or practitioner with an interest in exercise science and education
