

MARK SCHEME for the October/November 2013 series

0460 GEOGRAPHY

0460/12

Paper 1, maximum raw mark 75

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Cambridge is publishing the mark schemes for the October/November 2013 series for most IGCSE, GCE Advanced Level and Advanced Subsidiary Level components and some Ordinary Level components.

Validating Technological Innovation David Coniam, Peter Falvey, 2016-04-02 This book discusses Hong Kong s use of onscreen marking OSM in public examinations Given that Hong Kong leads the way in OSM innovation this book has arisen from a recognised need to provide a comprehensive coherent account of the findings of various separate but linked validation studies of onscreen public examinations in Hong Kong The authors discuss their experience of the validation process demonstrating how high stakes innovation should be fully validated by a series of research studies in order to satisfy key stakeholders

House of Commons - Environmental Audit Committee: Green Finance - HC 191 Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Environmental Audit Committee, Joan Walley, 2014-03-06 The Environmental Audit Committee points out that there is a large green finance gap Investments are currently running at less than half of the 200 billion needed in energy infrastructure alone by 2020 to deliver national and international emissions reduction targets And stock markets could be inflating a carbon bubble by over valuing companies with fossil fuel assets that will have to be left unburned in order to limit climate change The Bank of England s Financial Policy Committee should seek advice from the independent Committee on Climate Change to help it monitor the systemic risk to financial stability associated with a carbon bubble To address the green finance gap the Government must provide a joined up stable and certain policy framework that maintains investor confidence and helps markets price in the cost of carbon The Green Investment Bank has made a good start but does not currently have the power to borrow in order to leverage and enlarge its investments limiting its potential to fill the green finance gap Take up of the Green Deal has been poor and the Government must make it simpler and more attractive to households The European Commission s EC proposed new rules for State Aid in the energy sector could limit the finance available to support community owned energy schemes The Government must play a central role in agreeing ambitious and binding international commitments on climate change both in the EU and in the run up to the UN climate talks in Paris 2015

Wakefield, 2025-01-21 Reimagining adaptation amidst climate change driven mutations of urban space and life Between its susceptibility to flooding and an ever expanding real estate market powered by global surges of people and capital Miami is an epicenter of the urban Anthropocene and a living laboratory for adaptation to sea level rise Miami in the Anthropocene explores the social environmental and technical transformations involved in climate adaptation infrastructure and imaginaries in a global city seen as climate change ground zero Using Miami as a compelling microcosm for understanding the complex interplay between urbanization and environmental upheaval in the twenty first century Stephanie Wakefield shows how aquatic urban futures are being imagined for the city from governmental scenario exercises for severe weather events to proposals to transform the city's metropolitan area into an archipelago of islands connected by bridges She examines the shifts reweaving the fabric of urban life and presents designs that imagine dramatic new ways of living with water Grounded in the dynamic landscape of Miami but reaching far beyond its shores Miami in the Anthropocene delves into the broader debates shaping urban thought and practice in the Anthropocene Focusing on postresilience urban designs Wakefield illuminates the path toward a future where cities embrace opportunities for evolution rather than merely for survival      Geography, Institutions and Regional Economic Performance Riccardo Crescenzi, Marco Percoco, 2012-12-13 The book aims to present traditional features of regional science as geographical concepts and institutions as well as relatively new topics such as innovation and agglomeration economies In particular it demonstrates that contrary to what has been argued by recent economics literature both geography and institutions or culture are relevant for local development In fact these phenomena along with the movement of goods and workers are among the main reasons for persisting development differentials These intriguing relationships are at the heart of the analysis presented in this book and form the conceptual basis for a promising institutional approach to economic geography      Metrics Vincanne Adams, 2016-03-05 This volume s contributors evaluate the accomplishments limits and consequences of using quantitative metrics in global health Whether analyzing maternal mortality rates the relationships between political goals and metrics data or the links between health outcomes and a program s fiscal support the contributors question the ability of metrics to solve global health problems They capture a moment when global health scholars and practitioners must evaluate the potential effectiveness and pitfalls of different metrics even as they remain elusive and problematic Contributors Vincanne Adams Susan Erikson Molly Hales Pierre Minn Adeola Oni Orisan Carolyn Smith Morris Marlee Tichenor Lily Walkover Claire L Wendland      Environmental Transformations Mark Whitehead, 2014-04-16 From the depths of the oceans to the highest reaches of the atmosphere the human impact on the environment is significant and undeniable These forms of global and local environmental change collectively appear to signal the arrival of a new geological epoch the Anthropocene This is a geological era defined not by natural environmental fluctuations or meteorite impacts but by collective actions of humanity Environmental Transformations offers a concise and accessible introduction to the human practices and systems that sustain the Anthropocene It combines accounts of the carbon cycle global heat balances entropy hydrology forest ecology and pedology with theories of demography war industrial capitalism urban development state theory and behavioural psychology This book charts the particular role of geography and geographers in studying environmental change and its human drivers It provides a review of critical theories that can help to uncover the socio economic and political factors that influence environmental change It also explores key issues in contemporary environmental studies such as resource use water scarcity climate change industrial pollution and deforestation These issues are mapped through a series of geographical case studies to illustrate the particular value of geographical notions of space place and scale in uncovering the complex nature of environmental change in different socio economic political and cultural contexts Finally the book considers the different ways in which nations communities and individuals around the world are adapting to environmental change in the twenty first century Particular attention is given throughout to the uneven geographical opportunities that different communities have to adapt to environmental change and to the questions of social justice this situation raises This book encourages students to engage in the scientific uncertainties that surround the study of environmental change while also discussing both pessimistic and more optimistic views on the ability of humanity to address the environmental challenges of our current era      The Geopolitics of Spectacle Natalie Koch, 2018-06-15 Why do autocrats build spectacular new capital cities In The Geopolitics of Spectacle Natalie Koch considers how autocratic rulers use spectacular projects to shape state society relations but rather than focus on the standard approach on the project itself she considers the unspectacular others The contrasting views of those from the poorest regions toward these new national capitals help her develop a geographic approach to spectacle Koch uses Astana in Kazakhstan to exemplify her argument comparing that spectacular city with others from resource rich nondemocratic nations in central Asia the Arabian Peninsula and Southeast Asia The Geopolitics of Spectacle draws new political geographic lessons and shows that these spectacles can be understood only from multiple viewpoints sites and temporalities Koch explicitly theorizes spectacle geographically and in so doing extends the analysis of governmentality into new empirical and theoretical terrain With cases ranging from Azerbaijan to Qatar and Myanmar and an intriguing account of reactions to the new capital of Astana from the poverty stricken Aral Sea region of Kazakhstan Koch's book provides food for thought for readers in human geography anthropology sociology urban studies political science international affairs and post Soviet and central Asian studies      Fast Money Schemes John Cox, 2018-10-02 In the late 1990s and early 2000s a wave of Ponzi schemes swept through Papua New Guinea Australia and the Solomon Islands The most notorious scheme U Vistract attracted many thousands of investors enticing them with promises of 100 percent interest to be paid monthly Its founder Noah Musingku was a charismatic leader who promoted the scheme as a form of Christian mission and as the basis for establishing an independent kingdom Fast Money Schemes uses in depth interviews with investors newspaper accounts and participant observation to understand the scheme's appeal from the point of view of those who invested and lost showing that organizers and investors alike understood the scheme as a way of accessing and participating in a global economy John Cox delivers a post village ethnography that gives insight into the lives of urban middle class Papua New Guineans a group that is not familiar to US readers and that has seldom been a focus of anthropological interest The book's concern with understanding the interweaving of morality finance and aspirations shared by a global cosmopolitan middle class has wide resonance beyond studies of Papua New Guinea and anthropology      Geographies of Development Robert Potter, Tony Binns, Jennifer Elliott, Etienne Nel, David Smith, 2019-03-07 Now in its fourth edition Geographies of Development An Introduction to Development Studies remains a core balanced and comprehensive introductory textbook for students of Development Studies Development Geography and related fields This clear and concise text encourages critical engagement by integrating theory alongside practice and related key topics throughout It demonstrates informatively that ideas concerning development have been many and varied and highly contested varying from time to time and from place to place Clearly written and accessible for students who have no prior knowledge of development the book provides the basics in terms of a geographical approach to development what situation is where when and why Over 200 maps charts tables

textboxes and pictures break up the text and offer alternative ways of showing the information The text is further enhanced by a range of pedagogical features chapter outlines case studies key thinkers critical reflections key points and summaries discussion topics and further reading Geographies of Development continues to be an invaluable introductory text not only for geography students but also anyone in area studies international studies and development studies

The Life and Death of Secondary Education for All Richard Pring, 2013-05-07 Is there life after death for secondary education This book focuses upon the quality of learning Reform so called too often begins with qualifications examinations institutional provision paths of progression All those are very important but their value lies in the support they give to learners and their learning in its different forms One needs to start with the aims of education and then with what it means to learn practically theoretically morally and with the very many different needs of the learners That is what this book aims to do In so doing it will be both philosophical in analysis and empirical in example So much is happening from down below that goes unrecognised by policy makers But innovations too often get hampered by government interventions by a bureaucratic mentality and by failure to spread good practice The general argument of the book therefore will be illustrated throughout with detailed references to practical developments in schools colleges the third sector youth work independent training providers and professional bodies across several countries The book builds on Education for All which was based on 14 19 research into secondary education this book transcends the particularities of England and Wales and digs more deeply into those issues which are at the heart of educational controversy policy and practices and which survive the transience of political change and controversy The issues the aims of education standards of performance the consequent vision of learning the role of teachers progression from school to higher or further education and into employment the provision of such education and training and the control of education are by no means confined to the UK or to this day and age Pring identifies similar problems in other countries such as the USA Germany and France and indeed in the Greece of Plato and Aristotle and offers solutions with a comparative perspective It is a critical time Old patterns of education and its provision are less and less suitable for facing the twenty first century The patterns and modes of communication have changed radically in a few years and those changes are quickening in pace The economic context has been transformed affecting the skills and knowledge needed for employment The social world of young people raises fresh demands hopes and fears A global recession has affected young people disproportionately making quality of life and self fulfilment ever more difficult to attain In addressing learning and the learners first and foremost the book will argue for a wider vision of learning and a more varied pattern of provision Old structures must give way to new

Reconsidering Localism Simin Davoudi, Ali Madanipour, 2015-01-09 Localism has been deployed in recent debates over planning law as an anodyne grassroots way to shape communities into sustainable human scale neighborhoods But local is a moving category with contradictory nuanced dimensions Reconsidering Localism brings together new scholarship from leading academics in Europe and North America to develop a theoretically grounded critique and definition of the new localism and how it has come to shape urban governance and urban planning Moving beyond the UK this book examines localism and similar shifts in planning policy throughout Europe and features essays on localism and place making sustainability social cohesion and citizen participation in community institutions It explores how debates over localism and citizen control play out at the neighborhood institutional and city level and has come to effect the urban landscape throughout Europe Reconsidering Localism is a current vital addition to planning scholarship
