Geography Paper Memorandum November 23:

Educational Reconstruction Gary McCulloch, 2013-09-05 This book presents a clear overview of the debates that surrounded the making of the 1944 Act which affected every aspect of education in this country. It gives a detailed account of the tripartite divisions into three types of child that were sanctioned in the reforms of the 1940s. At the same time it also emphasises the idea of education as a civic project which underlay the reforms and which was such an important part of their lasting authority. The education policies of the past decade and the current attempts to shape a new education settlement need to be interpreted in a long term historical framework and in particular in relation to the aims and problems of the last great cycle of reform in the 1940s. This book makes an important contribution to the development of such a framework and the social history of education policy in this country. New York Court of Appeals. Records and Briefs. National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1968 First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965-70 Western Kentucky University Lowell H. Harrison, 2014-10-17 Most Hilltoppers believe that Western Kentucky University is unique. They take pride in its lovely campus, its friendly spirit, the loyalty of its alumni and its academic and athletic achievements. But Western's development also illustrates a major trend in American higher education during the past century. Scores of other institutions have followed the Western pattern, growing from private normal school to state normal school to teachers college to general college, finally emerging as an important state university. Historian Lowell Harrison traces the Western story from the school's origin in 1875 to the January 1986 election of its seventh president. For much of its history, Western has been led by paternalistic presidents whose major battles have been with other state schools and parsimonious legislatures. In recent years, the presidents have been challenged by students and faculty who have demanded more active roles in university governance and by a Board of Regents and the Council on Higher Education which have raised challenging new issues. Harrison's account of the institution's development is laced with anecdotes and vignettes of some of the school's interesting personalities: President Henry Hardin Cherry whose chapel talks convinced countless students that the Spirit Makes the Master; Uncle Ed Diddle whose flying towel and winning teams earned national basketball fame; Daddy Burton who could catch flies while lecturing; Miss Gabie Robertson who held students into the next class period; the lone Japanese student who was on campus during World War II. Harrison also recalls steamboat excursions, the Great Depression and the Second World War, the astounding boom in enrollment and buildings in the 1960s, the period of student unrest and the numerous fiscal crises that have beset the school This is the story of an institution proud of its past and seeking to chart its course into the twenty first century Literary Examinations, Dublin Metropolitan Police Great Britain. Radcliffe-Brown Isak Niehaus,2024-11-01 Alfred Radcliffe Brown 1881 1995 is widely renowned as a founder of modern social anthropology This biography challenges popular stereotypes of him as a misplaced positivist and colonial conservative It shows Radcliffe Brown to be a thoroughly cosmopolitan scholar a committed fieldworker and a sharp critic of colonialism Radcliffe Brown engaged strategically with colonial authorities to further the interests of his discipline and invoked scientific credentials to critique central aspects of colonial rule His struggle for intellectual autonomy and advocacy of a comparative sociological approach speaks to many contemporary concerns Title Announcement Bulletin ,1957 The Reagan Presidency W. Elliot Brownlee,Hugh Davis Graham,2003 Table of contents Hollywood in San Francisco Joshua Gleich,2018-11-14 One of the country s most picturesque cities and conveniently located just a few hours drive from Hollywood San Francisco became the most frequently and extensively filmed American city beyond the production hubs of Los Angeles and New York in the three decades after World War II During those years the cinematic image of the city morphed from the dreamy beauty of Vertigo to the nightmarish wasteland of Dirty Harry although San Francisco itself experienced no such decline This intriguing disconnect gives impetus to Hollywood in San Francisco the most comprehensive study to date of Hollywood s move from studio to location production in the postwar era In this thirty year history of feature filmmaking in San Francisco Joshua Gleich tracks a sea change in Hollywood production practices as location shooting overtaken studio based filming as the dominant production method by the early 1970s. He shows how this transformation intersected with a precipitous decline in public perceptions of the American city to which filmmakers responded by developing a stark realist aesthetic that suited America's growing urban pessimism and superseded a fidelity to local realities. Analyzing major films set in San Francisco ranging from Dark Passage and Vertigo to The Conversation, The Towering Inferno and Bullitt as well as the TV show The Streets of San Francisco, Gleich demonstrates that the city is a physical environment used to stage urban fantasies that reveal far more about Hollywood filmmaking and American culture than they do about San Francisco.

The Sea Is My Country Joshua L. Reid, 2015-05-26 For the Makahs, a tribal nation at the most northwestern point of the contiguous United States, a deep relationship with the sea is the locus of personal and group identity. Unlike most other indigenous tribes whose lives are tied to lands, the Makah people have long placed marine space at the center of their culture, finding in their own waters the physical and spiritual resources to support themselves. This book is the first to explore the history and identity of the Makahs from the arrival of maritime fur traders in the eighteenth century through the intervening centuries and to the present day. Joshua L. Reid discovers that the People of the Cape were far more involved in shaping the maritime economy of the Pacific Northwest than has been understood. He examines Makah attitudes toward borders and boundaries, their efforts to exercise control over their waters and resources as Europeans and Americans arrived, and their embrace of modern opportunities and technology to maintain autonomy and resist assimilation. The author also addresses current environmental debates relating to the tribe's customary whaling and fishing rights and illuminates the efforts of the Makahs to regain control over marine space, preserve their marine-oriented identity, and articulate a traditional future.

Revolutionary Emancipation Claudius K. Fergus, 2013-06-10 Skillfully weaving an African worldview into the conventional historiography of British abolitionism, Claudius K. Fergus presents new insights into one of the most intriguing and momentous episodes of Atlantic history. In Revolutionary Emancipation, Fergus argues that the 1760 rebellion in Jamaica, Tacky's War, the largest and most destructive rebellion of enslaved peoples in the Americas prior to the Haitian Revolution, provided the rationale for abolition and reform of the colonial system. Fergus shows that following Tacky's War, British colonies in the West Indies sought political preservation under state-regulated amelioration of slavery. He further contends that abolitionists' successes from partial to general prohibition of the slave trade hinged more on the economic benefits of creolizing slave labor and the costs of preserving the colonies from destructive emancipation rebellions than on a conviction of justice and humanity for Africans. In the end, Fergus maintains, slaves' commitment to revolutionary emancipation kept colonial focus on reforming the slave system. His study carefully dissects new evidence and reinterprets previously held beliefs, offering historians the most compelling arguments for African agency in abolitionism.

Perilous Place, Powerful Storms Craig E. Colten, 2010-06-30 The hurricane protection systems that failed New Orleans when Katrina roared on shore in 2005 were the product of four decades of engineering hubris, excruciating delays, and social conflict. In Perilous Place

Powerful Storms Craig E Colten traces the protracted process of erecting massive structures designed to fend off tropical storms and examines how human actions and inactions left the system incomplete on the eve of its greatest challenge Hurricane Betsy in 1965 provided the impetus for Congress to approve unprecedented hurricane protection for the New Orleans area Army Engineers swiftly outlined a monumental barrier network that would not only safeguard the city at the time but also provide for substantial growth Scheduled for completion in 1978 the project encountered a host of frustrating delays From newly imposed environmental requirements to complex construction challenges to funding battles to disputes over proper structures the buffer envisioned for southeast Louisiana remained incomplete forty years later as Hurricane Katrina bore down on the city As Colten reveals the very remedies intended to shield the city ultimately contributed immensely to the residents vulnerability by encouraging sprawl into flood prone territory that was already sinking within the ring of levees Perilous Place Powerful Storms illuminates the political social and engineering lessons of those who built a hurricane protection system that failed and serves as a warning for those guiding the recovery of post Katrina New Orleans and Louisiana

Antisemitism and Islamophobia in Europe James Renton, Ben Gidley, 2017-04-05 This is the first book to examine the relationship between European antisemitism and Islamophobia from the Crusades until the twenty first century in the principal flashpoints of the two racisms With case studies ranging from the Balkans to the UK the contributors take the debate away from politicised polemics about whether or not Muslims are the new Jews Much previous scholarship and public discussion has focused on comparing European ideas about Jews and Judaism in the past with contemporary attitudes towards Muslims and Islam This volume rejects this approach Instead it interrogates how the dynamic relationship between antisemitism and Islamophobia has evolved over time and space The result is the uncovering of a previously unknown story in which European ideas about Jews and Muslims were indeed connected but were also ripped apart Religion empire nation building and war all played their part in the complex evolution of this relationship As well as a study of prejudice this book also opens up a new area of inquiry how Muslims Jews and others have responded to these historically connected racisms The volume brings together leading scholars in the emerging field of antisemitism Islamophobia studies who work in a diverse range of disciplines anthropology history sociology critical theory and literature Together they help us to understand a Europe in which Jews and Arabs were once called Semites and today are widely thought to be on two different sides of the War on Terror

The United States and the End of British Colonial Rule in Africa, 1941-1968 James P. Hubbard, 2014-01-10 At the end of World War II Britain possessed a vast African empire encompassing nearly 27 million square miles about 10 times larger than Britain itself But by 1965 only three small African territories remained under British control all of which would become independent before the end of 1968 This book examines the swift demise of Britain's African empire looking particularly at the role played by the United States in bringing the empire to an end It reveals how the United States was anti colonial without being actively pro independence concluding that the country's policies and actions combined with its postwar dominance directly and indirectly contributed to the political economic and social transformation of Africa Research Catalogue of the American Geographical Society: Regional numbers 6-8, United States.
