Unstable Ground

Rosalind C. Morris, 2025-03-04 What has gold done to people What has it made them do The Witwatersrand in South Africa once home to the world s richest goldfields is today scattered with abandoned mines into which informal miners known as zama zamas venture in an illicit often deadly search for ore Based on field research conducted across more than twenty five years around these mines Unstable Ground reveals the worlds that gold made possible and gold s profound costs for those who have lived in its shadow and dreamt of its transformative power From the vantage point of the closure of South Africa s gold mines Rosalind C Morris reconsiders their histories beginning in the present and descending into the pasts that shaped them Anchored in evocative descriptions of mining in the ruins this book explores the social worlds built on gold and the lives that were remade and sometimes undone by the industry over a century and a half Viewing this industry from its margins against the backdrop of the cyanide revolution the gold standard s demise and recurrent sinkholes as well as the insurrectionary protests and violence that continue to this day it recasts the history of South Africa and the incomplete effort to overcome apartheid amid the transformations of the global economy In writing that is by turns immersive incisive and poetic Morris unearths a history that was born of imperial aspiration and that persists as a speculative mirage Interweaving ethnography history personal testimony and political thought with striking readings of South African literary texts Unstable Ground is a work of extraordinary ambition and depth

Mzala Nxumalo, Leftist Thought and Contemporary South

Africa Robert J. Balfour, 2024-10-04 Written as a tribute to the revolutionary intellectual and leader Mzala Nxumalo this book discusses the significance of his work in the context of contemporary South African left politics It explores the history and struggle of the apartheid era that preceded the advent of democracy to analyze a crucial aspect of the national question that is the quest for the establishment of a united South Africa to overcome racist and sexist policies that create and nurture divisions among black people The subjects in this book deal with a wide range of topics including the new social economic and political challenges facing democratic South Africa the need to reexamine the critique of capitalism in the 21st century the relationship between race class and community struggles and the ecological challenges under capitalism Print edition not for sale in Sub Saharan Africa Routledge Handbook of Food as a Commons Jose Luis Vivero-Pol,Tomaso Ferrando,Olivier De Schutter,Ugo Mattei,2018-12-17 From the scientific and industrial revolution to the present day food an essential element of life has been progressively transformed into a private transnational mono dimensional commodity of mass consumption for a global market But over the last decade there has been an increased recognition that this can be challenged and reconceptualized if food is regarded and enacted as a commons This Handbook provides the first comprehensive review and synthesis of knowledge and new thinking on how food and food systems can be thought interpreted and practiced around the old new paradigms of commons and commoning The overall aim is to investigate the multiple constraints that occur within and sustain the dominant food and nutrition regime and to explore how it can change when different elements of the current food systems are explored and re imagined from a commons perspective Chapters do not define the notion of commons but engage with different schools of thought the economic approach based on rivalry and excludability the political approach recognizing the plurality of social constructions and incorporating epistemologies from the South the legal approach that describes three types of proprietary regimes private public and collective and different layers of entitlement bundles of rights and the radical activist approach that considers the commons as the most subversive coherent and history rooted alternative to the dominant neoliberal narrative These schools have different and rather diverging epistemologies vocabularies ideological stances and policy proposals to deal with the construction of food systems their governance the distributive implications and the socio ecological impact on Nature and Society The book sparks the debate on food as a commons between and within disciplines with particular attention to spaces of resistance food sovereignty de growth open knowledge transition town occupations bottom up social innovations and organizational scales local food national policies South South collaborations international governance and multi national agreements Overall it shows the consequences of a shift to the alternative paradigm of food as a commons in terms of food the planet and living beings Food Waste, Food Insecurity, and the Globalization of Food Banks Daniel N. Warshawsky,2024-01-02 Food banks warehouses that collect and systematize surplus food have expanded into one of the largest mechanisms to redistribute food waste From their origins in North America in the 1960s food banks provide food to communities in approximately one hundred countries on six continents This book analyzes the development of food banks across the world and the limits of food charity as a means to reduce food insecurity and food waste Based on fifteen years of in depth fieldwork on four continents across North America Europe Asia and Africa this volume illustrates how and why food banks proliferate across the globe even though their impacts may be limited Rather than addressing the root causes of food insecurity and food waste governments and corporations promote food banks because it allows them to deflect attention away from their own institutional shortcomings

The coronavirus crisis has only further underscored the fact that food bank systems are a patchwork of charities rather than a systematic network to reduce food insecurity and food waste. Given the limited impacts and potential pitfalls of food banks in different contexts, the author of this book suggests that we need to reformulate the role of food banks. To start, the mission of food banks needs to be clearer and more realistic as food surpluses cannot reduce food insecurity on a significant scale. In addition, food banks need to regain their institutional independence from the state and corporations and incorporate the knowledge and experiences of the food insecure in the daily operations of the food system. Also, given that food systems are designed differently across the Global South, food banks may not be a good fit for development in some contexts. If implemented, these collective changes can contribute to a future where food banks play a smaller but more targeted role in food systems.

Civil Society and Peacebuilding in Sub-Saharan Africa in the Anthropocene Jean Chrysostome K. Kiyala, Geoff Thomas Harris, 2022-04-22. This book examines civil society's peacebuilding role in sub-Saharan Africa in the context of climate change and the pursuit of environmental peace and justice in the Anthropocene. Five main research themes emerge from its 20 chapters: The roles of environmental peacemaking, environmental justice, ecological education, and eco ethics in helping to mitigate the impacts of climate change; Peacebuilding by CSOs after violent conflicts with particular reference to accountability, reconciliation, and healing; CSO involvement in democratic processes and political transition after violent conflicts; Relationships between local CSOs and their foreign funders and the interactions between CSOs and the African Union's peace and security architecture; The particular role of faith-based CSOs. The book underlines the centrality of dialogue to African peacebuilding and the indigenous wisdom and philosophies on which it is based. Such wisdom will be a key resource in confronting the existential challenges of the Anthropocene. The book will be a significant resource for researchers, academics, and policymakers concerned with the challenge of climate change, its interactions with armed conflict, and the peacebuilding role of CSOs. This pathbreaking book shows why peacebuilding analysis and efforts need to be urgently re-oriented towards the existential challenges of environmental peace and justice. It explains the emerging conceptual frameworks which are needed for this new role. It explains the critical role that CSOs, local and international, will play in implementing this new peacebuilding approach with particular reference to sub-Saharan Africa.

Whether you seek tales of romance, adventure, or personal growth, the world of literature offers an abundance of engaging stories waiting to be discovered. The novel begins with Richard Papen, a bright but troubled young man, arriving at Hampden College. Richard is immediately drawn to the group of students who call themselves the Classics Club. The club is led by Henry Winter, a brilliant and charismatic young man. Henry is obsessed with Greek mythology and philosophy, and he quickly draws Richard into his world. The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a brilliant and suspenseful novel that will keep you wondering until the very end. The novel is a cautionary tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
