BEST BOOKS OF THE YEAR BY THE SPECTATOR Richard Cohen's book acted as a tonic to me. It didn't make me more Russian but it fired up my imagination. I have never annotated a book so fiercely. Hilary Mantel: There are three rules for writing a novel: Somerset Maugham is said to have said: Unfortunately no one knows what they are. How then to bring characters to life: find a voice, kill your darlings or run. That most challenging of literary gauntlets: writing a sex scene. What made Nabokov choose the name Lolita? Why did Fitzgerald use firstperson narration in The Great Gatsby? How did Kerouac who raged against revision finally come to revise On the Road? Veteran editor and author Richard Cohen takes us on an engrossing journey into the lives and minds of the world's greatest writers from Honor de Balzac and George Eliot to Virginia Woolf and Zadie Smith with a few mischievous detours to visit Tolstoy along the way. In a scintillating tour d'horizon Cohen lays bare the tricks, motivations and techniques of the literary greats revealing their obsessions and flaws and how we can learn from them along the way.

Charles Dickens, Updated Edition Harold Bloom, 2009. Presents a collection of critical essays on Dickens and his works.

Spectral Dickens Alexander Bove, 2021-02-09. Drawing on the recent ontological turn in critical theory, Spectral Dickens explores an aspect of literary character that is neither real nor fictional but spectral. This work thus provides an in-depth study of the inimitable characters populating Dickens' illustrated novels using three hauntological concepts: the Freudian uncanny, Derridean spectrality and the Lacanian real. Thus while the current discourse on character studies which revolves around values like realism, depth and lifelikeness tends to see characters as mimetic of persons, this book invents new critical concepts to account for non-mimetic forms of characterization. These spectral forms bring to light the important influence of developments in nineteenth-century visual culture such as the lithography and caricature of Daumier and J.J. Grandville. The spectrality of novelistic characters developed here paves the way for a new understanding of fictional characters in general.

The Oxford Handbook of Charles Dickens Robert L. Patten, John O. Jordan, Catherine Waters, 2018-09-13. The Oxford Handbook of Charles Dickens is a comprehensive and up-to-date collection on Dickens's life and works. It includes original chapters on all of Dickens's writing and new considerations of his contexts from the social, political and economic to the scientific, commercial and religious. The contributions speak in new ways about his depictions of families, environmental degradation and improvements of the industrial age as well as the law, charity and communications. His treatment of gender, his mastery of prose in all its varieties and genres and his range of affects and dramatization all come under stimulating reconsideration. His understanding of British history of empire and colonization of his own nation and foreign ones and of selfhood and otherness like all the other topics is explained in terms easy to comprehend and profoundly relevant to global modernity.

A Room of His Own Barbara Black, 2012-04-27. In nineteenth-century London a clubbable man was a fortunate man indeed. The Reform, the Athenaeum, the Travellers, the Carlton, the United Service are just a few of the gentlemen's clubs that formed the exclusive preserve known as clubland in Victorian London, the City of Clubs that arose during the Golden Age of Clubs. Why were these associations for men only such a powerful emergent institution in nineteenth century London Distinctly British how did these single sex clubs help fashion men foster a culture of manliness and assist in the project of nation building What can elite male affiliative culture tell us about nineteenth century Britishness A Room of His Own sheds light on the mysterious ways of male associational culture as it examines such topics as fraternity sophistication nostalgia social capital celebrity gossip and male professionalism The story of clubland and the literature it generated begins with Britain's military heroes home from the Napoleonic campaign and quickly turns to Dickens's and Thackeray's acrimonious Garrick Club Affair It takes us to Richard Burton's curious Cannibal Club and Winston Churchill's The Other Club it goes underground to consider Uranian desire and Oscar Wilde's clubbing and resurfaces to examine the problematics of belonging in Trollope's novels The trespass of French socialist Flora Tristan who cross dressed her way into the clubs of Pall Mall provides a brief interlude London's clubland this all important room of his own comes to life as Barbara Black explores the literary representations of clubland and the important social and cultural work that this urban site enacts Our present day culture of connectivity owes much to nineteenth century sociability and Victorian networks clubland reveals to us our own enduring desire to belong to construct imagined communities and to affiliate with like minded comrades
