Group Rip Off Report:

Consumer Protection and Online Auction Platforms Christine Riefa, 2016-03-03 Online auctions have undergone many transformations and continue to attract millions of customers worldwide. However, these popular platforms remain understudied by legal scholars and misunderstood by legislators. This book explores the legal classification of online auction sites across a range of countries in Europe. Including empirical studies conducted on 28 online auction websites in the UK, the research focusses on the protection of consumers' economic rights and highlights the shortcomings that the law struggles to control. With examinations into important developments including the Consumer Rights Directive and the latest case law from the CJEU on the liability of intermediaries, Riefa anticipates changes in the law and points out further changes that are needed to create a safe legal environment for consumers whilst preserving the varied business model adopted by online auction sites. The study provides insights into how technical measures as well as a tighter legislative framework or enforcement pattern could provide consumers with better protection in turn reinforcing trust and ultimately benefiting the online auction platforms themselves.

They offer a systemic approach to ensuring that spending is aligned with the government's policy priorities, is effective in achieving its intended objectives and is deployed efficiently. This How to Note outlines the various objectives of spending reviews and provides guidance on designing a spending review process including the organizational architecture and roles and responsibilities of various stakeholders. It also discusses the various stages of conducting spending reviews and mechanisms for integrating their outcomes into the budget process. This note draws on lessons and experiences from countries that have established spending reviews while recognizing that this is an emerging area for further reform.

 Complaints Managers Clare Xanthos,2004 This thesis is an interdisciplinary study of the conflicts and tensions in the role of NHS complaints managers The thesis sets out to explore the contradictions inherent in the role of complaints managers and the ways complaints managers deal with these contradictions The interdisciplinary theoretical underpinning of the research is informed by conceptualizations of the complaints manager in the specific socio legal sense of complaints handler third party dispute handler a broader public administration framework of administrator bureaucrat and finally a wide ranging sociological social psychological framework as social actor Thus the thesis draws on an eclectic range of literature from socio legal studies public administration sociology and social psychology It also draws on non theoretical social policy literature in relation to the policy context of the thesis In relation to methodology the research uses a qualitative approach It is based on in depth telephone interviews recorded with thirty NHS complaints managers which were transcribed verbatim and are the focus of systematic analysis The complaints managers interviews are supplemented with documentary analysis of job descriptions and person specifications of NHS complaints managers and email interviews with NHS complaints experts who are not complaint managers who have a specialist knowledge of the complaints manager role Three key areas emerged as the principal findings of the research The complaints manager s role encompasses inherent contradictions regardless of the personal style or individual approach of the complaints manager Complaints managers exhibited opposing stances that is very different responses reactions to the inherent contradictions in their role in relation to organization orientation versus complainant orientation There were different types of complaints managers Accordingly a typology of complaints managers was generated with specific reference to their responses and reactions to the inherent contradictions in their role in terms of complainant orientation versus organization orientation In conclusion the thesis argues that there are without doubt fundamental contradictions in the role of NHS complaints managers in terms of reconciling complainants rights with organizational requirements However ultimately individual complaints managers respond and react very differently to the inherent contradictions in their role Medical Review of Reviews ,1914 Index medicus in v 1 30 1895 1924 Featured
