Types of Clouds

Everyone knows there are clouds in the sky. But did you know that there are different types of clouds? These clouds not only look different from each other, but also produce different types of weather!

There are high clouds, middle clouds, and low clouds. High clouds are above 18,000 feet. Middle clouds are 6,500 to 18,000 feet in the air. Low clouds can be up to 6,500 feet.

The most common high cloud is the cirrus cloud. They are white, thin, wavy clouds. When you see cirrus clouds, it means there will be good, fair weather.

Two types of middle clouds are the altostratus and altocumulus clouds. Altostratus clouds can mean there will be lots of rain or snow coming. Altocumulus clouds can mean there will be afternoon thunderstorms.

Stratus clouds are the most common low clouds. They are gray clouds that resemble, or look like, fog. Usually, mist or rain will fall from stratus clouds.

The other common type of cloud is the cumulus cloud. It is not a high, middle, or low cloud because it is a vertical cloud, which means it goes up and down. Cumulus clouds are big, white puffy clouds. When you see a cumulus cloud, it will most likely be a fine day.

Different Clouds

Clouds come in many different shapes and sizes! Different clouds can also mean different things when we are predicting weather.

Cirrus clouds can mean there will be a change in the weather in the next 24 hours.

Cirrostratus clouds can be seen 12-24 hours before a rain or snowstorm.

Circumulus clouds are seen in the winter and usually mean it will be fair weather, but very cold.

Altostratus clouds means there will be continuous (going on for a long time) rain or snow.

Alto cumulus clouds may mean there will be thunderstorms in the afternoon.

Stratus clouds usually mean there will be a light rain, or mist.

Cumulus clouds can predict a beautiful day, but cumulonimbus clouds are thunderstorm clouds.

There are many more clouds and all of them have different reasons for forming in the sky. We can learn a lot from studying clouds and what they do!

Teaching Evidence-Based Writing: Nonfiction Leslie Blauman, 2016-10-14 One in a million. Yes, that's how rare it is to have so many write about reading strategies so beautifully put to use. Each year Leslie Blauman guides her students to become highly skilled at supporting their thinking about texts, and in Evidence-Based Writing: Nonfiction, she shares her win-win process. Leslie combed the ELA standards and all her favorite books and built a lesson structure you can use in two ways: with an entire text or with just the excerpts she's included in the book. Addressing Evidence Relationships, Main Idea, Point of View, Visuals, Words, and Structure, each section includes Lessons you can use as teacher demonstrations or for guided practice with Best of the Test tips on how to authentically teach the skills that show up on exams with the texts you teach. Prompt Pages serve as handy references giving students the key questions to ask themselves as they read any text and consider how an author's meaning and structure combine. Excerpts to Write About Pages feature carefully selected passages from current biographies, informational books, and articles on the topics you teach, and questions that require students to discover a text's literal and deeper meanings. Write About Reading Templates scaffold students to think about a text efficiently by focusing on its critical craft elements or text structure demands and help them rehearse for more extensive responses. Writing Tasks invite students to transform their notes into a more developed paragraph or essay with sufficiently challenging tasks geared for grades 6-8. And best of all, your students gain a confidence in responding to complex texts and ideas that will serve them well in school, on tests, and in any situation when they are asked, "What are you basing that on? Show me how you know."
