Energy efficiency and fuel poverty Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Environment, Food and Rural Affairs Committee, 2009-06-10 With failure to meet its statutory obligation to end fuel poverty imminent the Government should instigate an action plan as a matter of urgency to help the millions of UK households who remain in fuel poverty as a result of fuel price rises This report HCP 37 session 2008 09 ISBN 9780215530622 on Energy efficiency and fuel poverty from the Environment Food and Rural Affairs Committee states that the Winter Fuel Payment should be made taxable and stopped for those paying higher rate tax so that more money can be directed to fund bigger and better targeted energy efficiency programmes aimed in the first instance at the fuel poor To ensure more rapid improvement of the entire English housing stock the range of current energy efficiency programmes should be consolidated into one comprehensive area based programme to upgrade all homes and to be delivered by local authorities The Committee wants the Government to produce a detailed road map setting out how to deliver a national plan to make every home in England energy efficient to a minimum SAP level of 65 and to SAP 81 wherever practicable SAP is the Government's Standard Assessment Procedure for Energy Rating of Dwellings and uses a scale of 1 to 100 with a higher rating indicating a better level of energy efficiency create a central budget into which energy companies pay their CERT contributions so that they can be pooled with money from other programmes to fund a single consolidated comprehensive area based programme led by local authorities to deliver the national plan The Committee also concludes that resources for tackling fuel poverty are inadequate and getting worse Warm Front should see its budget increased rather than cut repeatedly and should now be extended to include all hard to treat properties All schemes designed to help the fuel poor or improve energy efficiency would be better targeted if those organisations in charge of their delivery had better access to data on a range of variables including energy efficiency levels in homes household incomes and fuel costs The Department for Energy Climate Change should survey current data needs and access arrangements as a matter of urgency

The Energy Reader Laura Nader, 2010-05-17 The Energy Reader presents a series of readings that examine the energy problem from an anthropological perspective and look at energy holistically including social and cultural components and long term implications for global and social environmental change Brings a unique critical approach to the problem of energy and its complexity Presents the topic as both a human and a technological problem differentiating long term perspectives from short term fixes Includes coverage of the politics of energy the protection of future generations the avoidance of dangerous waste products efficiency resilience and democratic relevance Features selections drawn from the work of physicists economists business experts engineers journalists historians and entrepreneurs

Environmental Audit Committee, 2008 This report examines three overarching issues the impact of the growth of house building targets what sort of homes should be built and where these homes should be built The Committee on Climate Change should assess the impact of the Government's new house building targets for three million new homes by 2020 on the UK's 2020 carbon reduction target In light of the latest economic projections fundamental changes in the mortgage market and falling house prices the Government should review the assumptions on which its target is based And the target for 2 million new homes to be built before the zero carbon target comes into effect in 2016 with a further 1 million to be built afterwards should change to increase significantly the proportion built afterwards Zero carbon homes must source their heat and power from renewable sources Ideally these will come from on site renewable power generation where this is impractical off site renewables should be built or funded The Government should ensure that an excess of land is not made available to developers something which is already leading to greenfield sites being developed in preference to brownfield sites The Government should urgently reintroduce a clear sequential test in favour of brownfield development into planning policy Greater emphasis ought to be placed on energy efficiency and sustainability within the building control regime that inspects new housing The Government should consider introducing higher penalties for developers who fail to meet energy efficiency standards The same environmental tests used for eco towns should be applied to all major housing developments from 2016 The Government should re-examine eco town proposals to ensure they have good public transport links and are located close to commercial centres and employment opportunities Harper's Weekly John Bonner, George William Curtis, Henry Mills Alden, Samuel Stillman Conant, Montgomery Schuyler, John Foord, Richard Harding Davis, Carl Schurz, Henry Loomis Nelson, John Kendrick Bangs, George Brinton McClellan Harvey, Norman Hapgood, 1904 Legislative Calendar United
