Flower Dissection Lab Activity

Background Information:

Every flower consists of a set of adaptations that help to ensure successful reproduction. For example, flowers often have bright colors, attractive shapes, and pleasing aromas. These traits help them attract insects and other animals that will carry pollen grains from flower to flower. Pollination also occurs by means other than animals carrying the pollen. For some flowering plants, the wind plays an important role in transferring pollen from plant to plant.

The seed-bearing plants that produce flowers are angiosperms. The flower produces the seeds, each of which contains a new plant embryo. The parts of the flower are usually found in whorls, or rings. Petals are one of the sets of whorls. They attract pollinators. Sepals lie outside the petals. They protect the bud.

The reproductive organs, the stamens and pistils, lie inside the petals. A stamen is a male reproductive part. It consists of an anther that is held up by a filament. The anther produces pollen grains. A pistil is a female reproductive part. Its top is called the stigma. It is sticky to ensure that when pollen grains land on it, they stick to it. The middle supporting structure is the style, and the large base is the ovary, where the eggs are produced.
