Determination of the Empirical Formula of Silver Oxide

AP Chemistry Laboratory #1

Catalog No. AP8813

Publication No. 10528A

Introduction

There is an official database that keeps track of the known chemical compounds that exist in nature or have been synthesized in the lab. The database, called the chemical abstracts database, is updated daily. Currently, over 20 million different inorganic and organic compounds have been recognized. Twenty million compounds—how is it possible to identify so many different compounds and tell them all apart?

Concepts

- Percent composition
- Empirical formula
- Law of conservation of mass
- Molecular formula
- Percent yield

Background

The composition of a chemical compound—what it is made of—can be described at least three different ways. The percent composition gives the percent by mass of each element in the compound and is the simplest way experimentally to describe the composition of a substance. According to the law of definite proportions, which was first formulated in the early 1800s by Joseph Proust, the elements in a given compound are always present in the same proportion by mass, regardless of the source of the compound or how it is prepared. Calcium carbonate, for example, contains calcium, carbon, and oxygen. It is present in eggshells and seashells, chalk and limestone, minerals and pearls. Whether the calcium carbonate comes from a mineral supplement on a drugstore shelf or from seashells on the ocean shore, the mass percentage of the three elements is always the same: 40% calcium, 12% carbon, and 48% oxygen.

The percent composition of a compound tells us what elements are present in the compound and their mass ratio. In terms of understanding how elements come together to make a new compound, however, it is more interesting and more informative to know how many atoms of each kind of element combine with one another. Since all the atoms of a given element in a compound have the
