This is a true story of something that happened in December 1997. My brother, Ben, and I were going to spend Christmas with our aunt in Australia. We flew first into Changi Airport, to spend three days visiting Singapore. Lucky we had found a place to stay near the Botanic Gardens, where we visited our first morning. We were astonish at the heat of the sun but we felt cool beneath the trees and the gentle spray from the huge fountain. We spent a hot but enjoy a afternoon shopping in Orchard Road. As we turned the corner on our way back, I gasped.

"Look, it's snowing!" Ben, although, said, snow never falls in Singapore. Then, I saw, where the ground seemed covered with snow, a golden coach outside the hotel.

It had six white horses, which were drawn by Santa Claus, in his bright red suit. Artificial snow crystals are falling softly from the lampposts arranged on either side. It was a perfect Christmas snow scene, on the hottest day of the year in Singapore!

examines perspectives on language assessment through reflections on classroom applications and makes recommendations to strengthen quality language assessments by drawing on a variety of research methodologies. It also provides a foundation as to why foreign language assessment as a discipline should be refocused with caution, what sort of theoretical and practical implications should be in place for foreign language teachers and in what ways it may be possible to provide futuristic perspectives on foreign language assessment for test developers and users involved in language assessment. Covering key topics such as testing literacy and language teaching, this major reference work is ideal for industry professionals, policymakers, administrators, researchers, academicians, scholars, practitioners, instructors, preservice teachers, teacher educators, librarians, and students.

Globalisation, Employment and Education in Sri Lanka Angela W. Little, Siri T. Hettige, 2014-05-23 Since the late 1970s Sri Lanka has undergone a socio-economic transformation from protectionism towards economic liberalisation and increasing integration into the world economy. Through a systematic comparison of these periods of economic change, 1956-1977 and 1977 to the present, Angela W. Little and Siri T. Hettige examine the impact of this transformation on education, youth employment, and equality of opportunity in Sri Lanka. The book charts Sri Lanka's shift from a predominantly agricultural economy to one dominated by services and manufacturing, a reduction in unemployment, rising educational and occupational levels, expectations, and achievements, and a reduction in poverty. In turn, it reveals a growing role for the private sector and foreign interests in post-secondary education and a modest growth in private education at the primary and secondary levels, as well as widening social disparities in access to qualifications, training, and skills. The Sri Lankan experience of engagement with globalisation has been tempered by a long-running ethnic conflict that hindered economic and social development and diverted considerable public funds into defence and war. Now that the war is won, the challenge is how to invest in human resource development and the fulfilment of the expectations of youth from all ethnic and social groups. This challenge requires serious policy analysis, the generation of more state revenues, the reallocation of existing public resources, and a political commitment to the winning of a sustainable peace and stability. This book makes an important contribution to the broader international literature on the implications of globalisation for education policy and practice and to the interaction of exogenous and endogenous forces for educational change. It deals with the tension between the high social demand for education and the growing demand for specialised skills in a changing economy. As such, it has a wide interdisciplinary appeal across education policy and politics, Asian education, South Asian society, youth policy, sociology of education, political economy of social change, and globalisation.
