L. Akkermans, Jan Dirk Van Elsas, Frans J. De Bruijn, 2014-01-13 For a long time microbial ecology has been developed as a distinct field within Ecology In spite of the important role of microorganisms in the environment this group of invisible organisms remained unaccessible to other ecologists Detection and identification of microorganisms remain largely dependent on isolation techniques and characterisation of pure cultures We now realise that only a minor fraction of the microbial community can be cultivated As a result of the introduction of molecular methods microbes can now be detected and identified at the DNA RNA level in their natural environment This has opened a new field in ecology Molecular Microbial Ecology In the present manual we aim to introduce the microbial ecologist to a selected number of current molecular techniques that are relevant in microbial ecology The first edition of the manual contains 33 chapters and an equal number of additional chapters will be added this year Since the field of molecular ecology is in a continuous progress we aim to update and extend the Manual regularly and will invite anyone to deposit their new protocols in full detail in the next edition of this Manual We hope this book finds its place where it was born at the lab bench Antoon D L Akkermans Jan Dirk van Elsas and Frans J de Bruijn March 1995 Molecular Microbial Ecology Manual 1 361 8 1996 1996 Kluwer Academic Publishers

Methodologies and Results in Grapevine Research Serge Delrot, Hipólito Medrano, Etti Or, Luigi Bavaresco, Stella Grando, 2010-10-19 Grapevine is a crop of major economical interest and wine represents a multicultural heritage which has been growing since several milleniums Yet modern viticulture must face several challenges Global climate has increased berry sugar content and alcohol in the wine whereas phenolic and aromatic ripeness are not always achieved

Water supply is becoming shorter New varieties better adapted to new climatic conditions might have to be planted which may affect wine typicity Phytochemical treatments are more controlled and the consumer pays increasing attention to environmentally safe practices New methods reducing pesticide use but maintaining yield and typicity must be designed The present book illustrates the recent progress made in ecophysiology molecular and cell biology and pathology of grapevine as well as in precision viticulture and berry composition Combination of these new tools with field observations will undoubtedly make it easier to face the challenges described above These multidisciplinary contributions will be of interest to anyone involved in grapevine and wine activities      Proceedings of the Ocean Drilling Program Ocean Drilling Program,1996

Lemaster,Dietland Müller-Schwarze,2006-11-09 The editors and contributors to this volume should be justifiably proud of their participation in the tenth triennial meeting of the Chemical Signals in Vertebrates International Symposium This meeting was held 27 years after the initial gathering of participants in Saratoga Springs New York from June 6 to 9 1976 Subsequent meetings have been held every three years in Syracuse New York Sarasota Florida Laramie Wyoming Oxford England Philadelphia Pennsylvania Tübingen Germany Ithaca New York and Krakow Poland This tenth anniversary symposium was held from July 29 through August 1 in Corvallis Oregon and was hosted by the Zoology Department and Biology Programs of Oregon State University This book also represents the tenth in a series of books on chemical communication chemical ecology olfactory and vomeronasal research in vertebrate species The species covered in the chapters herein range from fish to mammals including humans By taxonomic breakdown the mammals are the most represented in number of species and chapter contributions However the hosts of the meeting endeavored to have some representative contributions covering all of the major vertebrate taxa As in past years the meeting was well represented with just over 100 participants from 13 different nations Plenary talks focused on some of the non mammalian groups that have tended to be less represented in these symposia Thus we had a very nice overview of comparisons and contrasts of invertebrate chemical communication to vertebrate systems      Environmental Toxicology and Chemistry ,2004

Commerce Business Daily, 1999-08      Research Report, 1996      <sup>15</sup>N Tracing of Microbial Assimilation, Partitioning and Transport of Fertilisers in Grassland Soils Alice Fiona Charteris, 2019-10-28 This book presents innovative research on soil nitrogen cycling and nitrate leaching with a view to improving soil management and fertiliser nitrogen use efficiency and reducing nitrogen leaching losses In this regard nitrogen <sup>15</sup> <sup>15</sup>N labelled fertiliser was used as a biochemical and physical stable isotope tracer in laboratory and field experiments The major outcome of the research was the development validation and application of a new compound specific amino acid <sup>15</sup>N stable isotope probing method for assessing the assimilation of fertiliser nitrogen by soil microbial biomass The novelty of the method lies in its tracing of incorporated nitrogen into newly biosynthesised microbial protein in time course experiments using gas chromatography combustion isotope ratio mass spectrometry The approach provides previously unattainable insights into the microbial processing of different nitrogen fertilisers in different soils Further it identifies the mechanistic link between molecular scale processes and observations of field scale fertiliser nitrogen immobilisation studies The method and the results presented here will have far reaching implications for the development of enhanced recommendations concerning farm based soil management practices for increasing soil productivity and reducing nitrogen losses which is essential to minimising environmental impacts
