Enchanted by Eternity

William J. Slattery, 2025-01-20 Whether we realize it or not Catholics have been deeply influenced by modernity's failed worldview While we want to live and share our faith with joy we struggle to do so because we unwittingly see the cosmos the human person and society as machines functioning independently of their Creator and of one another If we want to bring the life transforming effects of our faith into the world we must first find and live real Catholicism breaking free of the gravitational pull of modernity's worldview A worldview is the stable all encompassing way in which each of us looks at reality the pair of glasses through which we see the world around us It makes up the grid of givens assumptions and presuppositions through which we view the world It colors what we mean by God universe and human Everyone has a worldview and recognizing our worldview and the worldviews of others is crucial in our search for truth goodness and beauty In Enchanted by Eternity Fr William Slattery shows how Catholicism proposes an enchanted and enchanting view of self nature society and the future of each human person created to live in a resurrected body in the new heavens and the new earth As this book reveals rediscovering a truly Catholic worldview will change the way we live and it might even change the world

Changing Spaces of Education

Rachel Brooks, Alison Fuller, Johanna Waters, 2012-05-16 In today's modern climate education and learning take place in multiple and diverse spaces Increasingly these spaces are both physical and virtual in nature Access to and use of information and communication technologies and the emergence of knowledge based economies necessitate an understanding of the plurality of spaces such as homes workplaces international space and cyberspace in which learning can take place The spaces of policy making with respect to education are also being transformed away from traditional centres of policy formation towards the incorporation of a wider range of actors and sites These changes coincide with a more general interest in space and spatial theory across the social sciences where notions of simultaneity and diversity replace more modernist conceptions of linear progress and development through time This volume proffers a unique perspective on the transformation of education in the 21st century by bringing together leading researchers in education sociology and geography to address directly questions of space in relation to education and learning This collection of essays examines the changing and diverse spaces and concepts of education occurring simultaneously at different scales and in different parts of the world explores where education and learning take place discusses how spaces of education vary at different stages compulsory schooling tertiary and higher education adult education and workplace learning inspects the ways in which the meanings attached to education and learning change in different national and regional contexts Changing Spaces of Education is an important and timely contribution to a growing area of concern within the social sciences and amongst practitioners and policy makers reflecting an urgent need to understand the ways in which both education and learning are being reconfigured not just nationally but also internationally and transnationally It is essential reading for final year undergraduates postgraduates and researchers in geography sociology education and policy studies with an aim too of informing policy and practice in this area Independent Schools Yearbook 2012-2013
