Section: The Structure of DNA

Read the passage below. Then answer the questions that follow.

In 1928, bacteriologist Frederick Griffith worked with two strains of Streptococcus pneumoniae. The first strain was enclosed in a capsule made of polysaccharides. The capsule helped make the microorganism able to cause disease. The second strain of S. pneumoniae lacked the polysaccharide capsule and did not cause disease.

Griffith knew that mice infected with S bacteria grew sick and died, while mice infected with R bacteria were not harmed. To determine if the capsule on the S bacteria was causing the mice to die, Griffith injected the mice with dead S bacteria. The mice remained healthy. Griffith then prepared weakened S bacteria by raising their temperature until the bacteria were "heat-killed," meaning they were dead but maintained the capsule.

When Griffith injected the mice with the heat-killed S bacteria, the mice still lived. He then mixed the harmless live R bacteria with the harmless heat-killed S bacteria. Mice injected with this mixture died. Somehow, the harmless R bacteria underwent a change and became live, pneumonia-causing S bacteria. This phenomenon is now called transformation, a change in genotype caused when bacterial cells take up foreign genetic material.

SKILL: READING EFFECTIVELY

Read each question, and write your answer in the space provided.

1. What does the term strain refer to in the first sentence?

2. What effect might the polysaccharide capsule have on a bacterium contained within the capsule?

3. What does the term transformation mean?
