Induction and Deduction Constance Naden, 1890      Essays of a Birmingham Manufacturer: Injustice in justice. Lies of statistics. Middle-class education. Adam Smith and his precursors William Lucas Sargant, 1870      Essays on Realism and Rationalism Alan Musgrave, 2023-07-10 The book's essays represent an important contribution to the contemporary philosophical debate concerning Realism and Rationalism. The author defends in a clear and consistent fashion a fallibilist realistic and rationalist position in opposition to the idealistic and relativistic viewpoint characteristic of present postmodern philosophy.

Induction and Deduction Constance C. W. Naden, 2015-06-25 Excerpt from Induction and Deduction A Historical Critical Sketch of Successive Philosophical Conceptions Respecting the Relations Between Inductive and Deductive Thought and Other Essays It is a painful and pathetic task for an intimate friend of Constance Naden to be called upon to write a memoir however brief of her short life instead of looking forward to years of happy and elevating intercourse sharing in works of benevolent usefulness and gladly watching her rise to the distinction which her intellectual gifts entitled her circle of friends to anticipate. The sorrow for her loss must be lifelong. As Mrs Browning says the inevitable strikes us dead but the expression of it is unavailing. All that remains for the most devoted of her friends is to keep her memory green by striving to let the world know what it has lost both in promise and in fulfilment. Miss Naden's earlier life was uneventful and almost all the details for this portion of it have been drawn from accounts published in the Birmingham papers at the time of her death by those associated with her school and college career. Constance Caroline Woodhill Naden was born on the 24th January 1858 at her father's house in Edgbaston where he still resides and is the President of the Birmingham Architectural Association. Her mother died on the 5th February a few days after the birth of her child. Shortly afterwards the motherless infant was domesticated with her mother's parents Mr and Mrs Woodhill of Pakenham House Edgbaston and here Constance lived a retired peaceful life adored by her grandparents till they died Mr Woodhill in 1881 and his widow in 1887.
