How to pass English for business (EfB) : [LCCI international qualifications]. Level 2 : [Preparation and exercises book] Robert G. Mellor,V. G. Davison,2007 Principles of Epidemiology for Advanced Nursing Practice: A Population Health Perspective Mary Beth Zeni,2019-11-25 Principles of Epidemiology for Advanced Practice Nurses provides students and practitioners with an overview of epidemiology concepts as well as the history models and frameworks in use today Springer Handbook of Geographic Information Wolfgang Kresse,David M. Danko,2011-10-31 Computer science provides a powerful tool that was virtually unknown three generations ago Some of the classical fields of knowledge are geodesy surveying cartography and geography Electronics have revolutionized geodetic methods Cartography has faced the dominance of the computer that results in simplified cartographic products All three fields make use of basic components such as the Internet and databases The Springer Handbook of Geographic Information is organized in three parts Basics Geographic Information and Applications Some parts of the basics belong to the larger field of computer science However the reader gets a comprehensive view on geographic information because the topics selected from computer science have a close relation to geographic information The Springer Handbook of Geographic Information is written for scientists at universities and industry as well as advanced and PhD students Employment Law Explained BPP Learning Media,2012-05-01 Employment Law Explained will help line managers and business owners navigate their way through the employment legislation in force in England and Wales Covering the typical life cycle of employment from advertising and recruitment to termination this book is a practical guide to the legal aspects of managing people Written with the layman professional in mind it introduces in clear terms what you need to know what to consider what to do and what to avoid ,

Statistics, Testing, and Defense Acquisition National Research Council,Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education,Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education,Panel on Statistical Methods for Testing and Evaluating Defense Systems,1999-08-17 The Panel on Statistical Methods for Testing and Evaluating Defense Systems had a broad mandate to examine the use of statistics in conjunction with defense testing This involved examining methods for software testing reliability test planning and estimation validation of modeling and simulation and use of modern techniques for experimental design Given the breadth of these areas including the great variety of applications and special issues that arise making a contribution in each of these areas required that the Panel s work and recommendations be at a relatively general level However a variety of more specific research issues were either brought to the Panel s attention by members of the test and acquisition community e g what was referred to as Dubin s challenge addressed in the Panel s interim report or were identified by members of the panel In many of these cases the panel thought that a more in depth analysis or a more detailed application of suggestions or recommendations made by the Panel would either be useful as input to its deliberations or could be used to help communicate more individual views of members of the Panel to the defense test community This resulted in several research efforts Given various criteria especially immediate relevance to the test and acquisition community the Panel has decided to make available three technical or background papers each authored by a Panel member jointly with a colleague These papers are individual contributions and are not a consensus product of the Panel however the Panel has drawn from these papers in preparation of its final report Statistics Testing and Defense Acquisition The Panel has found each of these papers to be extremely useful and they are strongly recommended to readers of the Panel s final report

The Social Construction of SARS John H. Powers, Xiaosui Xiao, 2008-11-12 When the SARS virus began its spread from southern China around the world in spring 2003 it caught regional and international health officials by surprise The SARS epidemic itself lasted for only a few months whereas its treatment in communicative terms keeps providing us with important lessons that can prepare us all for the much larger pandemic that many are predicting will eventually occur While the medical aspects of SARS are now relatively well understood the discursive rhetorical dimensions are much less so As an international epidemic SARS arrived in a number of distinctive societies with the result that different communities handled the crisis in different ways some far more effectively than others Accordingly the 12 chapters in The Social Construction of SARS are studies of how a major health related crisis was understood and dealt with from a communicative perspective in such diverse places as Hong Kong mainland China Singapore Taiwan Canada and the United States during the SARS outbreak

Corpus Christi Ship Channel Deepening, Widening, Construction, 1971 Disease Surveillance Joseph S. Lombardo, David L. Buckeridge, 2012-11-09 An up to date and comprehensive treatment of biosurveillance techniques With the worldwide awareness of bioterrorism and drug resistant infectious diseases the need for surveillance systems to accurately detect emerging epidemics is essential for maintaining global safety Responding to these issues Disease Surveillance brings together fifteen eminent researchers in the fields of medicine epidemiology biostatistics and medical informatics to define the necessary elements of an effective disease surveillance program including research development implementation and operations The surveillance systems and techniques presented in the text are designed to best utilize modern technology manage emerging public health threats and adapt to environmental changes Following a historical overview detailing the need for disease surveillance systems the text is divided into the following three parts Part One sets forth the informatics knowledge needed to implement a disease surveillance system including a discussion of data sources currently used in syndromic surveillance systems Part Two provides case studies of modern disease surveillance systems including cases that highlight implementation and operational difficulties as well as the successes experienced by health departments in the United States Canada Europe and Asia Part Three addresses practical issues concerning the evaluation of disease surveillance systems and the education of future informatics and disease surveillance practitioners It also assesses how future technology will shape the field of disease surveillance This book's multidisciplinary approach is ideal for public health professionals who need to understand all the facets within a disease surveillance program and implement the technology needed to support surveillance activities An outline of the components needed for a successful disease surveillance system combined with extensive use of case studies makes this book well suited as a textbook for public health informatics courses Technical Abstract Bulletin Defense Documentation Center (U.S.),1963-05
