

Edith Wharton

Edith Wharton (born Edith Newbold Jones, January 24, 1862 – August 15, 1937) was an American writer and designer. Wharton drew upon her insider's knowledge of the upper-class New York "aristocracy" to portray realistically the lives and morals of the Gilded Age. In 1907, she became the first woman to win the Pulitzer Prize in Fiction, for her novel The Age of Innocence. She was inducted into the National Academy of Arts in 1930. Among her other well-known works are The House of Mirth, the novella Ethan Frome, and several notable ghost stories.

Despite not publishing her first novel until she was forty, Wharton became an extraordinarily productive writer. In addition to her 15 novels, seven novellas, and eighty-five short stories, she published poetry, books on design, travel, travel and lecture notes, and a memoir.

Many of Wharton's novels are characterized by subtle irony, and she is often credited with being the first to use the term "social climbing" in her novel The House of Mirth.

Wharton's novels, such as The House of Mirth, The Age of Innocence, and Ethan Frome, are set in the Gilded Age, a period of rapid economic growth, marked by the rise of a new industrial elite and the expansion of the capitalist system. Her novels often focus on the lives of the upper class, and her writing is characterized by a keen eye for detail and a strong sense of social realism.

Industrial Revolution and the Arts
The Industrial Revolution brought about a new era of economic growth and social change. It was a time of rapid technological advancement, and it led to the rise of a new industrial elite. This period also saw the emergence of new art forms, such as the novel and the short story, which allowed writers to explore the complexities of the new world.

Wharton's novels, such as The House of Mirth, The Age of Innocence, and Ethan Frome, are set in the Gilded Age, a period of rapid economic growth, marked by the rise of a new industrial elite and the expansion of the capitalist system.
